

Steel Strikers Assail Railroad Injunction Suit

Charge Three Roads Act 'As Front for Republic Steel'

HEARING DELAYED

Building Operations Again Halted at Lansing, Mich.

Youngstown, Ohio.—The Steel Workers' Organizing Committee attacked "as a front for Republic Steel Corp." an injunction suit of three railroads to restrain interference with their shipments by steel strike pickets in federal court today as peace plans in the revenue state controversy simmered and Republic planned to reopen a picketed plant.

Edward Lamb, general counsel for the Committee for Industrial Organization in Ohio, obtained a postponement of the suit in federal court in Cleveland. Judge Samuel H. West set Friday for a hearing on the union's motion to dismiss the suit.

S. W. O. C. leaders said Joseph Morton, president of the local at Massillon, Ohio, was clubbed by Republic guards today when he went with two other pickets to inspect steel freight cars on a Pennsylvania railroad spur at the Republic plant there.

Dr. J. A. Barnes, who dressed the union leader's wounds, said he had face lacerations and scalp wounds. He ordered him to bed at union headquarters.

Pickets to Disarm
Meanwhile, with about 73,000 workers idle in plants of Republic, Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. and Inland Steel Corp., police Chief Carl Olson at Youngstown ordered pickets to stop carrying clubs and other weapons in the city.

At the injunction hearing in Cleveland, attorney, arguing against postponement of the action, said that the railroads have been "obstructed by force from movement of their trains in interstate commerce."

"It is a serious situation," he said, "and ought not to be allowed to continue for ten days."

While the hearing was in progress, 500 pickets delayed 350 Cleveland Republic office workers from reaching their offices for nearly an hour. The picket line was disbanded after a Republic official offered to turn over a list of office employees to Al Balint, C. I. O. organizer. It was the first mass picketing at the Cleveland plant since the strike started.

NEW LABOR HOLIDAY
Lansing, Mich.—(U)—Another one-day "labor holiday" in Michigan's state capital city halted building operations today.

The new "holiday" called by unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor to signal the start of an organizing campaign, pulled bricklayers, plasterers, painters, plumbers and electricians away from buildings under construction here.

Yesterday, the United Automobile Workers of America, C. I. O. affiliate, called its members from work in a city-wide demonstration that neared the proportions of a general strike in protest against the arrest of eight pickets.

Spokesman for the building tradesmen declared today's holiday had tied up "every city and state project as well as private building in the city."

Prosecutor Thomas J. Bailey, who prepared misdemeanor charges against five of eight pickets whose arrest precipitated yesterday's holiday, said today he was prepared to press the charges in justice court in Mason tomorrow.

Yesterday's vast demonstration, which centered about the front lawn of the state capitol yesterday, passed off with no more violence than a college hazing.

And a college hazing was the very experience encountered by an out-riding detachment of the United Automobile Workers.

MAYFLOWER, THE SECOND

The finest model ever built of the Mayflower, Pilgrim ship, was recently finished by a famous model-builder for the London historical society. Five years were taken in research and construction. Authentic down to the door-hinges, the model is valued at $35,000. Ship models aren't the only little things that are highly valuable, of course. ## 5 Senators for U.S. Monopoly On Munitions

Offer Proposal to 'Take Private Profit Out Of War'

WOULD BUY PLANTS

Proposal for 2 More Supreme Court Justices Is Considered

Washington.—(U)—A group of five senators proposed today to help "take the private profit out of war" by giving the government a practical monopoly in the manufacture of war weapons and munitions.

Senator Bone (D-Wash.) headed the group which included also Clark of Missouri and Pope of Idaho, Democrats, and Nye and Frazier of North Dakota, Republicans.

They said their proposed legislation would be supplementary to other methods, such as high profits taxes, designed to make war a profitless enterprise in this country.

Under their bill the secretary of war would acquire plants sufficient to produce munitions and supplies to meet all army and navy requirements. The secretary of the navy would acquire additional shipyard and gun factory facilities necessary for building, arming and repairing a variety of committee hearings went forward on Capitol Hill.

While Bone disclosed the quinquennial munitions nationalization plan, a variety of committee hearings went forward on Capitol Hill.

Katherine F. Lenroot, children's bureau head, suggested that federal child labor legislation should permit use of state systems for enforcement purposes. She testified before a joint congressional committee studying the Black-Connelly labor standards bill.

In the controversy over court reorganization a proposal by Senator Andrews (D-Ill.) for a flat enlargement of the supreme court by two members received consideration as a possible basis for compromise.

Informed senators said administration leaders had encouraged Andrews, possibly with a view toward accepting his suggestion as a substitute.

Non-Strikers to Use Pullman Cars

Move by Republic Steel Corporation Creates New Legal Questions

Chicago.—(U)—The use of Pullman cars to house non-striking workmen at the Republic Steel corporation's South Chicago plant posed new legal questions today for officials of the city health and building departments.

In a surprise move the company shunted the cars to tracks adjoining the mill after Mayor Edward Kelly broke a home in the left arm. Three bullets passed through the car windshield.

Fought For Life
The police said Dentice apparently struggled desperately for his life. Bits of his hair were found on the driver's seat and on the car's ceiling.

Two men who were with Dentice at the night club denied to police that they had seen the man between the time they left the place and the shooting was reported. The police said they would be released.

Several other persons, including the night club manager, were questioned but failed to shed light on the slaying.

9-Month School Term Bill Passed

Both Houses Approve Measure and Send it To Governor

Madison.—(U)—All Wisconsin school districts will have to conduct nine-month school terms if Governor LaFollette approves a bill sent to him today.

The bill was passed by the senate and sanctioned by the assembly without record vote.

Assemblyman Arthur Hitt (D), chairman of the house education committee, said it will affect nine counties where the majority of the rural schools now have eight-month terms. The eight-month term is in vogue in other counties, but most districts have nine months of school, he said.

Miscellaneous bills approved today by both houses:

Senate bill fixing a penalty of 1 to 7 years imprisonment for counterfeiting bus tickets.

Senate bill providing for a commission to represent Wisconsin at the sesquicentennial observance of the adoption of the federal constitution.

Senate bill requiring the state to assume all unpaid obligations on town highways added to the state trunk system.

Senate bill permitting notaries public and public officials receiving less than $500 a year to use free railroad passes.

Killed by the assembly: Senate bill authorizing dealers to turn back the speedometers of used cars to zero before re-sale.

Police Hunting for Two Men Sought by Justice Department

Two men, sought by the federal department of justice on bank robbery charges and reported seen at Larsen and Neenah, were hunted by police and sheriff's officers in this area today.

One of the men, George Slade, is listed on a department of justice circular as under indictment for robbery of the First National Bank of Blairtown, N. J., in 1935 but the specific charge against John Gardner, believed to be Slade's companion, was not announced.

The two men, driving a 1936 or 1937 model Plymouth coach with Illinois license plates, are reported to have been seen at Larsen about 8 o'clock this morning and at a Neenah bank at noon. Slade was described as 5 feet 9½ inches tall with brown hair and blue eyes and weighing about 122 pounds. Gardner is 5 feet 8 inches tall, 60 years old, bald and weighing 175 pounds. He has gray eyes and wears glasses.

Wants States to Retain Their Own Labor Standards

Wylie Tells Joint Committee He Favors Minimum Pay, Maximum Hours

Washington.—(U)—Fred M. Wylie, Madison, Wis., member of the Wisconsin Trade Practices commission, told the joint house and senate labor committee today he favored minimum wages and maximum hours in industry but urged that states be empowered to maintain their own standards.

"We want to have done with the no-man's land," Wylie, testified at a hearing, "where the federal government does not act for whatever reason, and the states, because of the constitution cannot act without congressional consent."

Endorsing the principles embodied in the Black-Connelly bill for minimum wages and maximum hours in interstate commerce, Wylie said states should be authorized to deal with intra-state commerce.

He outlined Wisconsin's legislative standards for prohibiting unfair trade practices, and declared:

"I personally support the proposition that the intricate and varying situations in both state and federal jurisdictions cannot be dealt with effectively or competently by direct legislation, but must be met by adequate legislative standards within which an administrative agency shall act, with judicial review to ascertain that the agency actually applies and keeps within the standards."

"I advocate the giving of power to the states within the field not occupied by federal legislation and actual administration, to maintain their own standards. Whether this shall be in as far-reaching a manner as the Black-Connelly bill or whether it shall be more restricted in territory, as for instance, contiguous states; or whether it shall be restricted as to industries; or whether an adequate congressional standard for application by federal agency can be enacted, is a matter for the consideration of the congress."

Power District in 2 Counties Held Invalid

Madison.—(U)—The state supreme court held today that the municipal power district proposed to be created in Polk and Burnett counties under a law enacted by the legislature in 1931 is invalid.

In an opinion delivered by Chief Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry, the court said that the municipal power district law, under which two or more communities may combine for the purchase or creation of a public utility system, "bristles" with complicated legal questions.

The court said it would reserve its opinion as to whether the entire law is valid, but that upon the record the Polk-Burnett power district has no valid existence.

Mrs. John W. Reynolds Succumbs at Green Bay

Green Bay.—(U)—Mrs. John W. Reynolds, 57, wife of the former attorney general of Wisconsin, died at her home today after an illness of three years. Survivors are the widower, two daughters, two sons, one sister and one brother. Burial will be here Friday morning.

Report Al Brady Gang Heading for Wisconsin

Chicago.—(U)—Lake County Sheriff Lawrence Doolittle dispatched deputies to posts in and around suburban Waukegan today after Illinois state police flashed word to north shore towns that Al Brady, Indiana fugitive, and members of his "new Driller gang" were seen speeding north through Chicago.

State police said the men were reported riding in a sedan bearing Ohio license plates. They were believed to be heading for Wisconsin.

Fragment of Bone Spurs Hunt for Victims in Crash of Big Airplane

Salt Lake City.—(U)—A fragment of human bone spurred the search for bodies today below the peak where a fog-blinded airliner was shattered last December with seven aboard.

The bone, a fractured strip only four inches long from a leg, was found Sunday. Nearby were a shoe, with laces neatly tied, and torn sections of fuselage.

The find spurred search activities from the knife-edged southern tip of Hardy ridge to the base of its 1,000-foot precipice.

There, at the edge of a giant snowfield which the sun touches only briefly each day, 30 men dug hopefully at ice and debris.

"There is every indication now that the bodies are in that snow—and some places it's 50 feet deep," said Alan Brady, vice president of Western Air Express which owned the destroyed liner.

How to get the bodies off the mountain, once they are found, remained a problem. Crew members said use of toboggans, with pulleys hoisted over several sharp declines, probably would be the solution.

M. C. Wenzler, postal inspector, said 90 per cent of the mail load would be recovered, most of it on top of the ridge.

About 200 of the 570 pounds apparently went over the cliff in the plane's tail," he added.

Wenger said the plane, flying up a canyon from Alpine in darkness and storm last Dec. 15, evidently struck Hardy ridge only 20 feet from its top, then showered over the cliff.

Rocky juttings caught some of the wreckage as it hurtled by.

State Senate In Refusal to Kill WDA Bill

Administration Forces Muster 18 Votes Against Opponents' 14

MEASURE ASSAILED

Fond du Lac Solon Charges Kannenberg Plan Is Unconstitutional

Madison.—(U)—The senate advanced the Kannenberg Wisconsin development authority bill beyond the amendment stage today with an engrossment vote of 16 to 14.

Madison.—(U)—The senate refused by a vote of 18 to 14 today to kill the Kannenberg Wisconsin development authority bill, designating a non-profit corporation to carry out the administration's state power program.

When Senator Kenneth White (R), River Falls, moved indefinite postponement of the measure, the Progressives mustered 18 votes in defense of the bill and rejected the motion.

Fifteen Progressives and their usual allies, Senators Philip Nelson (R), Maple, and Arthur Zimny (D), Milwaukee, were supported on the roll call of Senator Chester Dempsey (D), Hartland.

Then Senator Marvin Duell (R), Fond du Lac, launched into a 20-page prepared speech in which he charged the WDA bill is unconstitutional by reason of delegation to a corporation of activities forbidden to the state itself by the constitution.

Replying to assertions that the WDA could not go outside the utility field because of the statute forbidding substantial changes in articles of incorporation of non-profit corporations, Duell said:

"It is within the power of the majority of the members of the corporation to provide for a unanimous, harmonious membership by expelling any member who is opposed to broadening the powers, thus removing the only person legally qualified to object to action on any proposed amendment to enlarge the scope of the corporation."

Senator White called attention to the state constitutional provision prohibiting work of internal improvement by the state. He said the WDA bill raised two questions:

"First, are the purposes prohibited by the constitution, and second, can the legislature appropriate public funds to a private corporation for a purpose in which the state itself cannot engage?"

The progressive majority disposed of remaining amendments systematically.

The closest vote came on an amendment by Senator Joseph Clancy (D), Racine, which would have limited the WDA activities to such work as might be requested by rural electrification cooperatives or by municipalities.

Senator E. M. Rowlands (D), Cambria, declared this amendment was "a wolf in sheep's clothing," and would "prohibit the WDA from organizing rural electrification."

Rush Is Absent
In the absence of Senator Walter Rush (D), Neillsville, the Progressive bloc required the vote of Lieutenant Governor Henry Gunderson to defeat this amendment.

When Senator Frank Panzer (D), Oakfield, cast his vote for such a change.

Then Senator Nelson asked the sponsor of the bill, Senator Roland Kannenberg (D), Wausau, why he objected to an amendment which would have included radio broadcasting in the activities of the WDA.

"If there is a monopoly on anything, there is on radio. We have a radio station in Superior and if you talk for a few minutes they'll seek you about $50 so quickly you won't know what's happened," Nelson said.

The senate defeated a motion to reconsider the vote by which the radio amendment was rejected.

Report Al Brady Gang Heading for Wisconsin

Chicago.—(U)—Lake County Sheriff Lawrence Doolittle dispatched deputies to posts in and around suburban Waukegan today after Illinois state police flashed word to north shore towns that Al Brady, Indiana fugitive, and members of his "new Driller gang" were seen speeding north through Chicago.

State police said the men were reported riding in a sedan bearing Ohio license plates. They were believed to be heading for Wisconsin.

Drug Firm Executives Start Sit-Down Strike

Madison.—(U)—Labor trouble developed today on two fronts at the Yahr-Lawson, Inc., wholesale drug firm whose president recently relinquished active management on demand of his employees.

George Huseby, who succeeded the president, Fred E. Yahr, as general manager, and 13 other employees, began a sit-down strike in an attempt to enforce a demand for Yahr's retirement from active direction of the company.

Meanwhile, employees who belong to the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, walked out in sympathy with Huseby and his fellow sit-downers. Police said about 40 pickets marched at the plant.

Business was suspended by the company, but Yahr said he was considering hiring a new staff to fill the "orders." The doors to the plant were locked later and the notice "the house locked today" was posted.

Public Welfare Bill Before Both Houses Of State Legislature

New Attacks are Made on Madrid, Valencia Areas

British Trying to Restrict Conflict to Spanish Territory

Madrid.—(U)—Police reported late today that they had uncovered evidence that a German spy and propaganda center existed in Madrid before the start of the Spanish civil war.

Agents said they had confiscated large quantities of Nazi propaganda, both in Spanish and German, in a raid on an apartment of a German resident of Madrid who is now in Paris.

The supposed German espionage leader's name was not disclosed. Two Spaniards allegedly connected with the agency were arrested. One was said to have possessed an introductory letter to the German from the late Jose Primo de Rivera, a Spanish fascist leader.

By the Associated Press

Madrid and Valencia, old and new sites of the Spanish government, dug in today under new insurgent attacks.

Starting at midnight over 1,000 shells poured into Madrid from insurgent artillery. This morning 20 persons lay dead in the streets and more than 40 were carried to hospitals.

Valencia watched the sky four insurgent planes, dived over the outskirts this morning, bombed the port and hit a small ship. They vanished when anti-aircraft guns protested.

Talking twice two weeks ago, the British were trying to keep the war in Spain today. They proposed extension of safety zones for neutral shipping, and asked greater protection from the warring factions for ships in the non-intervention patrol in the hope of ending Germany and Italy back into the international neutrality patrol. They quit this "hands off Spain" fleet when Spanish government planes bombed their warships; Germany bombarded Almeria in reprisal.

Find Burial Ground
Insurgents at La Granja, 35 miles northwest of Madrid, said they found a government burial ground in which were the bodies of a

Auto License Bill To Third Reading

Assembly Sticks to Amendments Written Into Cashman Measure

Madison.—(U)—The assembly indicated today it will stand firm behind the amendments it wrote into the Cashman drivers license law.

The bill was re-ordered to a third hearing in its revised form. The provisions that old drivers must be examined upon renewal of their licenses every three years and that traffic violations be stamped on the back of license cards have been eliminated. The license fee also has been cut from $10 to $5 cents.

The assembly engrossed the measure after it was returned from the finance committee without recommendations, but a motion by Assemblyman Vernon Thomson (R), Richland Center, for reconsideration will delay final action.

The author, Senator John Cashman (D), Denmark, charged before the finance committee that the assembly had converted the bill from a safety measure to a "wealth measure."

The house concurred in Senator Cashman's bill to levy a tax of 25 per cent upon the gross income of brokers who enforce copyright rules in the public rendition of music controlled by the American Society of Composers, publishers and authors. The bill now goes to the governor.

8 Enter Prison for Plotting Against U. S.

Atlanta.—(U)—The president and seven members of the Puerto Rican nationalist party entered the federal penitentiary here today to begin serving sentences for conspiracy to overthrow United States rule on the island.

The president, under sentences ranging from 4 to 10 years, were brought here by special train early today and were taken in a heavily guarded, 15-ton truck to the brightly lighted penitentiary four miles from the airport.

The eight men, under guard of United States Marshal Donald A. Draughton of Puerto Rico and five deputies, left San Juan Monday morning and stopped over briefly in Port-au-Prince, Haiti, and Miami, Fla.

Pedro Albizu Campos, former Harvard student and president of the nationalist party, must serve 30 years for his part in the attempt to overthrow the government.

Free Text Books Bill Defeated in Assembly

Madison.—(U)—The bill of Assemblyman Andrew J. Bernier (D), Milwaukee, requiring local school boards to furnish free text books to all school children met decisive defeat in the assembly today. The vote was 70 to 20 for indefinite postponement.

Killing of the measure followed introduction of two unsuccessful amendments, one of which would have excluded pupils of the parochial schools. The other limited application of the bill to the city of Milwaukee.

Sheriff Oliver White at Prairie du Chien, Wis., said Harold Best (above), 15, admitted and then denied he killed his 11-year-old sister, Mildred, explaining they had quarreled after she teased him. Mildred was slain with a .22 caliber rifle bullet while in bed.

Charge Man in Fatal Accident Drove Recklessly

District Attorney to Review Evidence in Auto Crash Case

New London.—The death of Miss Mildred Mulroy, 21, New London rural school teacher who died in the head-on auto collision on Highway 45 south of the city early this morning of Sunday, April 4, was laid to reckless driving on the part of Gerhart Magadan, Hortonville, by a coroner's jury following an inquest at the city hall yesterday afternoon.

District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr of Appleton, who conducted the inquiry with Dr. H. E. Ellisworth, Outagamie county coroner, said no further action would be taken until he had had time to consider the evidence. Magadan was not held.

Miss Mulroy was killed when a car driven by David Straub, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Straub, route 3, New London, and one driven by Magadan, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Magadan, Hortonville, collided head-on about three miles south of New London on Highway 45. Miss Mulroy was riding in the Straub car and Magadan had as his companion Miss Vera Baehman, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Baehman of Hortonville.

Both drivers testified yesterday they had each had four or five glasses of beer during the evening.

Long Service of St. Bernard Dogs Saves Their Lives

Hospice of the Great St. Bernard, Switzerland.—The great dogs of the monastery of St. Bernard were saved from extermination today because of their long-year record of service to lost hikers in the Alps.

The sudden brutality which recently caused one of the St. Bernards to attack and kill a 10-year-old French girl could not be held sufficient to justify extermination of the entire breed, the commandant of the Swiss gendarmes ruled.

The commandant said he found the dogs were of general good nature, and were not a public danger. Three of the dogs he said were sent over the frontier to an Italian dog farm when it was found they might prove dangerous.

"It must be recognized," the commandant said, "that the dogs rendered a great service to humanity throughout the ages."

WPA Employs 250 On Conservation Jobs in District

Program Includes Lake, Stream Improvement, Fire Prevention

About 250 WPA employees have been at work during the last 18 months on conservation projects in WPA district No. 2, according to Martin Muth, district director.

Lake improvement work on 14 lakes in the area included construction of 125 brush refuges and 503 artificial islands made from brush and saplings. They are designed to provide shelter where small fry can escape the larger fish, and to promote the insect life necessary for fish food, Muth said. The tangles were built during the winter, weighted with boulders or sand bags and sunk through holes cut in the ice.

In addition, 153 bass spawning boxes and 651 minnow spawners were constructed and placed in the lakes. Bass spawning boxes are placed in mud bottom lakes for small mouth bass which require gravel and stone in spawning beds. The flat surfaces required for the spawning of blunt nose minnows are provided by minnow spawners.

Stream improvement projects were operated on 13 trout streams in Oconto, Marinette and Shawano counties. Bank covers have been built to provide shade and protection for trout, and 18,000 trees planted along the streams to provide shade and fish food.

Conservation work in the district also included clearing and grubbing 365 acres of land, construction of 18 miles of fire lanes, brushing 173 acres for truck trails, and planting of 61,000 pine trees in county owned forests. Ranger stations have been built at Bowler, Shawano county; Goodman, Pembine and Pound, Marinette county; and at Stiles in Oconto county.

In addition to lake and stream improvement and fire preventing work, WPA workers on conservation projects in the district have built 21 miles of road, 4 log bridges and 9 culverts, as well as 210 foot hoppers for feeding game birds during the winter, and 15 brooders for raising pheasant chicks.

May Make Survey On Reemployment

Propose Chamber of Commerce Check on Years Of 1929, 1932, 1937

A city-wide survey to determine to what extent manufacturers and retailers have figured in reemployment since 1929 may be undertaken by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce. The proposed survey, which would determine the number of employees at work on June 1, 1929, 1932 and 1937, will be considered by the chamber's board of directors at its next meeting.

The National Association of Manufacturers recently concluded a nation-wide survey of industrial reemployment which showed that reemployment in industry as a whole was equal to 1929 levels. It found that reemployment by its members was 6.5 per cent above the 1929 level.

Manufacturing industries of the nation now have a total of 11,000,000 men and women on their payrolls, an increase of more than 2,230,000 since the low point of employment in the years of 1932-1933, the survey showed.

Outdoor Meets And Picnics on Church Programs

Several Groups are Making Plans for Special Events

Picnics and outdoor meetings are gradually replacing the regular business and devotional meetings of church societies and organizations, now that the warm weather is approaching and the vacation season is here. Three groups which are replacing meetings with outings are C. Y. W. of First Congregational church which will have a picnic supper at the Otto Thiesenshusen cottage at Waverly beach Tuesday evening. Berean Sunday school class of Emmanuel Evangelical church which will have a 1 o'clock picnic dinner Thursday at Alicia park, and Young People's Missionary circle of the latter church which will meet Wednesday night at Alicia park.

Commencement exercises, too, are taking several local pastors out of town for a few days. The Rev. John W. Wilson will return this afternoon from Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., where he attended commencement at his alma mater over the weekend. On Friday the Rev. and Mrs. F. M. Brandt of St. Paul Lutheran church will go to Watertown to attend commencement exercises at Northwestern college from which Roland Ehlike, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ehlike, will be graduated.

Plan Convention

Pastor Brandt will be in Milwaukee Thursday to make arrangements for the biennial convention of the general synod of Wisconsin and other states which will be held Aug. 11 to 17 in Appleton. Last Sunday the annual basket picnic for the Sunday and day school was held at Erb park, with John Meyer, senior member of the school board, as chairman, and Roland Voss and Dr. E. N. Krueger as assistants. The Rev. T. J. Sauer, honorary pastor, preached the sermon at the morning service on "The Everlasting Covenant of God With Man."

The Rev. I. E. Schlegelhauf, district superintendent of the Appleton district of Methodist Episcopal church, will preside at a quarterly conference of Zion Methodist Episcopal church at Green Bay Tuesday night and at a quarterly meeting at Marinette Wednesday night.

Public Services

Two public services were held Sunday morning and evening at Salvation Army temple.

The morning service Mrs. Len Burridge spoke on "A Soul's Awakening" which was the story of an experience which she had recently as the result of a night of prayer. She told of incidents which have happened since that occurrence in meeting people in all walks of life and their response to the theme of her story which she defined as "Love." An illuminated sign, consisting of the word "Love," was set up before the audience during her talk. Many of the local churches and the Women's Christian Temperance Union were represented at the service, and Mayor Goodman was present on the platform and spoke briefly.

Adjutant Burridge was the speaker in the evening, his theme being "What I Think of This Modern Miracle." Spiritual music was provided by Mrs. Burridge and the Songsters brigade.

Group Meets Here

Green Bay Baptist Young People's association met over the weekend at First Baptist church, about 45 persons being present. A group of Methodist young people from Appleton attended a sub-district rally at Brillion Sunday.

"God the Only Cause and Creator" was the subject of the lesson-sermon Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist. The following is a passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "There is but one Creator and one creation. This creation consists of the unfolding of spiritual ideas and their identities which are embraced in the infinite mind and forever reflected. These ideas range from the infinitesimal to infinity, and the highest ideas are the sons and daughters of God. The word of God saith to the darkness upon the face of error, 'God is all-in-all,' and the light of ever-present love illumines the universe."

Plan Annual Trek to Camp American Legion

The annual trek to Camp American Legion at Lake Tomahawk will be made by legionnaires from all parts of Wisconsin Sunday. It will be the annual anniversary pilgrimage to the camp. Most state department officers will be at the camp Sunday as an executive committee meeting is scheduled there Saturday.

Thousands Witness Mile-Long Parade Opening State Milk Pool Convention

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh—Thousands of spectators lined Oshkosh streets Monday as the mile-long parade of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool wended its way over the bridge and through both business sections of the north and south side. Floats of all descriptions, and five bands furnished the music and delegations from nearly every county in the state were present.

The elaborate float entered by the Dodge county unit of the Pool, decorated with purple and white, won first place in the competition. Second place went to a trio of what the judges termed evenly matched floats.

The Pioneer float of the Outagamie county unit, that of the Juneau county with its "horn of Plenty," and the Waushara county "army tank" won the honors.

Prize winners were announced as the official meeting opened in the recreational building, presided over by Harry H. Jack, president.

For the first time in its history of six annual meetings the black goatee and flashing smile of former President Walter E. Singler was absent.

The morning session opened with registration of delegates. After being called to order by President Jack, the invocation was read by the Rev. James A. Daum, of the Presbyterian church. Welcome to the city was given by Mayor C. A. Weichering, and the response by H. F. Dries, state secretary.

Pool May Move

President Jack intimated the head quarters of the pool might be moved to Dane county.

Another remark of President Jack, that the pool might "affiliate" with the Farmers' Equity Union, were received in silence by the delegates.

It was stated the pool made a profit of about $37,000 last year, compared to a loss the previous year of about $46,000.

That the pool seeks to become its own distributing agency, also was intimated by President Jack, who asked the delegates to consider raising money for this purpose. At present, the actual marketing is done through one or more commission houses, it was said.

Tuesday will be one of the biggest days of the convention, it was stated.

Following the morning reports of the various officers, the convention will be addressed at 2:30 o'clock by Governor Philip F. LaFollette. Attorney Frank B. Keece, Oshkosh, also will speak.

Two Speakers

In the evening, Fred Schultheiss, commissioner of agriculture and markets and Herman Ihde, Neenah, state master of the Wisconsin Grange, will speak.

Wednesday is listed as Wisconsin Dairymen's News convention day.

In his keynote speech, President Jack told the delegates: "The farmers must pool their strength and resources. They must build on a program for the future."

President Jack referred to the troubled condition of Europe, pointing out that where cooperative systems are situated, dictators are not present.

"Are we going to regiment the farmer?" he asked. "Are we ready for community farms and collective farms?" To both questions he assured the delegates, he for one, was not.

His address scored both communism and fascism, and stated that only through cooperatives can the individual farmer continue to exist.

Lawsonia Host to Lawyers' Meeting

Houck, chairman of the association's committee on unauthorized practice, both of Minneapolis, Minn., and Dr. Boyd H. Bode, of the department of philosophy and education at Ohio State university.

Ray E. Graves, Wisconsin Rapids, will deliver the president's address to members, and John F. Savage, Milwaukee, and Anthony E. O'Brien of the Dane county junior bar association, will discuss "Some Problems of the Junior Lawyer."

He was fined $5 and costs on the first count and $25 and costs on the second. The arrest was made Monday by Appleton police who charged that the plates on Seehauer's car were not issued for his machine.

Expect 1,000 Boy Scouts To Attend Valley Council Camporee at New London

About 1,000 Valley Council Scouts will attend the eighth annual camporee which will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 11, 12 and 13, at the New Hatten Memorial park, New London. Valley Council scouts who will attend the national jamboree at Washington June 30-July 10 will set up their own camp at New London Wednesday night and take part in the camporee. Because a new swimming pool is available, scouts will compete for a swimming championship for the first time this year. Preliminary events will be held Saturday morning with the finals scheduled for the afternoon.

Troop committees and scout leaders are responsible for the eligibility of all scouts entered in contests and those who are ineligible will be allowed to participate in all events although not able to win any points.

When arriving at the camporee, all troops will register and receive assignments for a camp site. The troop must furnish its own equipment, tools, food and utensils. Reference books which may be studied include "Handbooks for Boys," "Book of Scouting," "Games and Recreational Methods" and "Scoutmasters' Handbook."

Plan Awards

Awards planned during the 3-day camporee include an emblem for every scout; honor awards for the 10 best patrols; awards for 10 troops scoring the most points in woodcraft and handicraft displays; awards to the three troops who score highest in the woodcraft display and to the three troops highest in the handicraft display.

Patrol and troop registration will start at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon and continue until 8 o'clock that evening when all scouts are expected to have their camps erected. Breakfast will be served from 6 to 7 o'clock Saturday morning after which scouts will be placed on fatigue duty for one hour.

Competitive events will start at 8 o'clock in the morning and continue until 11 o'clock after which troops will prepare for lunch which will be served at noon. The afternoon program will start at 1 o'clock when a 1-hour personal and camp inspection will be made.

Camporee Parade

Fun events are scheduled for an hour starting at 2 o'clock and the camporee parade will be held from 3 until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Supper preparations will start at 5 o'clock and scouts then will be free until 7 o'clock that night. A camp cleanup will be held from 7 o'clock to 8 o'clock after which a council camp fire will be held. Taps will be sounded at 10:15.

Scouts will start the Sunday program at 6 o'clock in the morning, clean up their camp and prepare for leaving until 11 o'clock. Church services and presentation of awards will be held from 9 until 11 o'clock in the morning.

Entire troops will participate in the campcraft contest with the scoring to be made on a basis of camp pitching, beds, care and condition of tools, fuel, mess equipment, camp kitchen and camp police.

Cookcraft Judges

Judges of the cookcraft contest will consider food storage, cleanliness, appetizing appearance, palatability, waste and condition of the police tent kitchen.

Troops entered in the general contest which will continue the entire camporee will be judged for discipline, efficiency of leaders, "after taps" behavior, attendance at events and patrol organization.

Other events scheduled include knot-tying, fire by friction and water boiling contests.

Troops to Attend

Scout leaders whose troops will participate in the camporee are George Klein, Harold Brown, Ray Renier, Ivan Stone, Karl Peerenboom, Stanley H. Paleich, Merriek Nelson, Al Kranzsch, Robert Peerenboom, Donald K. Cole, Fred Scheppeler, and Gene Birchler of Appleton; Don Rusch; J. Wesley Olson, Robert Schwartz, William Marsh, and Art J. The post of president of the board has been vacant since the death of William H. Chittenden of New London this spring. Choice of a new president will be one of the chief items of business for the board this spring.

The meeting will open commencement week activities at Lawrence college. The trustees will hold their reception for President and Mrs. Barrows at the college library from 4 to 5:30 Friday afternoon.

Kimberly Chief to Name
Deputy to Impound Dogs

Kimberly—After discussing the dog problem in the village from every angle at its meeting Monday evening, the village board gave Chief of Police John Bernardy, authority to appoint a deputy who will impound dogs. An ordinance provides that dogs running loose shall be caught and kept for five days. They will be impounded in a cell at the old village hall and if the owner does not call within that period of time and pay a $5 charge, the animal will be killed.

The question had been tabled at the previous meeting, Monday evening it was brought out that complaints were still coming in. Chief Bernardy explained that every day he has a number of calls about dogs

Lawrence Sees Need for Probe Of Snell Charges

Holds Legality of "Book Sales" Is Matter for Courts to Decide

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—The breath of scandal—the first to be charged in more than four years of his official career—has come to the Roosevelt administration.

Lawrence, the Democratic National committee's deficit.

Maybe what the Democratic National committee has done is legal and is only an avoidance of the "spirit of the law," as the phrase was used last week by the president when he sent a special message to congress denouncing lawyers and taxpayers who think up "clever little schemes" to get around the law.

But whether the device used to circumvent the federal corrupt practices act is or is not legal is something for the courts to determine. Representative Snell, minority leader, has begun an inquiry to determine whether a congressional investigation should be authorized by the house, but if the facts are set forth in the evidence possessed by Mr. Snell, then the question is one for a grand jury and not a congressional committee.

Confronted by a somewhat similar problem in connection with the Teapot Dome scandal, President Coolidge did not entrust the subject to the department of justice, but appointed two special prosecutors, a Republican and a Democrat, Owen Roberts—now a supreme court justice—and former Senator Alcee Pomeroy of Ohio, and gave them word to go ahead and sift the matter to the bottom, whether it led to criminal or civil prosecutions.

Letter Is Cited
Here are the facts and also a paragraph from the law, so the average person can determine for himself whether, to use the president's own language in discussing law avoidance, "the decency of American morals is involved."

First, there is a letter written on the stationery of the Democratic National committee and signed by one of its representatives, which letter was written in the year 1937 and addressed to a certain corporation:

"It took great pleasure in reporting my telephone conversation with you today to Mr. Taylor and I want to assure you that all of us here will deeply appreciate your help at this time in clearing up our deficit. I am enclosing the contract for four books and would appreciate your signing and forwarding it with your check for $1,000 in the enclosed envelope."

President's Autograph
"We are using this book as a means of clearing up the deficit and the president has made his contribution by individually autographing each of the volumes."

"The sale of the book enables us to legally accept corporation checks and this is the way all of the companies who are assisting us are handling these expenditures."

Many corporations have bought the books, which are merely the same book that was issued at the Democratic National convention, but with a different binding and with the autograph of the president on them. The contract with the purchasers provides that "the subscriber may turn over to the Democratic National committee such books as he does not desire for distribution by them as they see fit."

The foregoing provision made it possible to sell the same books more than once and thus get in more money. Now, the books themselves are clearly articles of some value, and yet corporations are forbidden to give contributions and political committees are prohibited from receiving contributions. Here is the way Section 241 of the federal corrupt practices act reads, under the heading "Definitions":

"The term 'contribution' includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money, or any thing of value, and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution."

Then there is another part of the federal corrupt practices act, namely Section 251, which says:

"It is unlawful for any national bank, or any corporation organized by authority of any law, of congress, to make a contribution in connection with any election to any political office, or for any corporation, whatever, to make a contribution in connection with any election at which presidential and vice presidential electors or a senator or representative in, or a delegate or resident commissioner to congress are to be voted for, or for any candidate, political committee, or other person to accept or receive any contribution prohibited by this section."

Provides Penalties
"Every corporation which makes any contribution in violation of this section shall be fined not more than $5,000; and every officer or director of any corporation who consents to any contribution by the corporation in violation of this section shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both."

The penalties for persons other than corporation officers, namely members of political committees, are set forth in Section 252 as follows:

"Any person who violates any of the foregoing provisions of this chapter, except those for which a specific penalty is imposed by Section 248 of Title 18, and Section 251 of Title 18, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both."

Now it may well be that the corporations themselves in all cases did not buy the books, but that individuals did. On the records of the clerk of the house of representatives, along with other receipts listed by the Democratic National committee since last election, are the names of several corporations and the amounts they paid for the books in question.

To Retire Deficit
There is another possible evasion or avoidance that possibly will be brought forward, namely that the money was not given for the purpose of electing a president or vice president or members of congress, since the contributions were actually made after the election occurred. The fact that the funds are openly conceded to be for the purpose of retiring a deficit incurred by the Democrats during the campaign may or may not be a factor for the courts to determine when they seek to learn whether the money is a "contribution" in the sense in which the term is used in the federal corrupt practices act.

But if it isn't an illegal step, it certainly comes under the head of avoidance, and there seems no doubt either that the president of the United States was well aware of the general nature of the scheme because he helped to autograph the books. Also, the names of the corporations to which the books were sold have been made a matter of public record.

Just how Mr. Roosevelt justifies his frequent attacks on "economic royalists" and then permits the Democratic National committee, over which a member of his cabinet presides, to sell the book to the big corporations is something which liberals will have to explain to the New Deal. At last, they had an administration which was free from the kind of thing the old dealers used to practice. In his message to congress last week, the president said about avoidance and evasion of federal tax laws:

"We hear too often from lawyers, as well as from their clients, the sentiment, 'it is all right to do it if you can get away with it.' Unfortunately, that's what most law evaders and law avoiders think, and the spectacle of an administration permitting the federal corrupt practices act to be avoided by a device such as the sale of campaign books is just the kind which makes so many men in the business world consider that all they have to do at Washington is to pull the strings through lobbyists and almost any of their troubles can be adjusted. Unless the administration takes the initiative in setting up a disincentive of special prosecutors to probe the offenses, it will be apt to let the federal corrupt practices act be avoided by a device which the method used was wholly within the 'letter of the law.' Indeed, it is rumored that when corporation executives asked if the plan was not a violation of the law, they were assured it was not and that there would certainly be no difficulties."

President Roosevelt said to congress last week, "clever little schemes are not admirable when they undermine the foundations of society."

U.S. Rural Program Is Discussed Before Club

New London—The work of the government's rural rehabilitation program was explained to the New London Rotary club by Clayton Case, rehabilitation worker at Waupaca, at the weekly noon luncheon meeting at the Elwood hotel yesterday.

Mr. Case works in Portage, Waushara and Waupaca counties and pointed out the need for the program. Before 1929 only 36 per cent of the farms carried mortgages and today 77 per cent are so burdened, he said.

The speaker explained that only those with sufficient farming experience and the necessary qualifications are aided by the government in moving from a poor farm to a better one, eligible applicants being determined through a detailed questionnaire. If an applicant is desirable the government will start him out on a new farm with all necessary equipment, the resultant loans to be repaid subsequently from the returns on the crops.

The club discussed possibilities of sending New London Boy Scouts to Gardner Dam camp this summer and members agreed to engage interested boys in their places of business or industry under conditions which would allow the boy to earn sufficient money to pay expenses for one term at camp. On the Rotary boy scout committee are J. B. Cristy, chairman, R. J. Meverden and the Rev. F. S. Dayton.

New London—The Gehrke Brothers softball team showed promise of being Hamiltons toughest rival for the City Industrial league championship when they easily downed Bordens 13 to 4 under the lights at the city ball park last night. It was the team's second decisive win and Bordens second defeat.

Schultz started the ball rolling when he stepped up first to bat for Gehrke's and planked a home run off Well's offering. Nearly all batters came up the first inning and three other runs were counted on doubles by Westphal, Edminster and G. Barlow and a hit by H. Jeffers. Wells walked only one throughout the game and earned three strikeouts while allowing 16 hits. Westphal got a home run in the fifth when four more runs were counted on five successive hits. White got a triple in the sixth and brought on one of the two runs in that inning.

White's pitching and fast field work held the Bordens squad scoreless the first two innings. Gerhart Felsner took the spotlight in the third inning when he batted the only home run for the milkmen with the first two batters on bases to chalk up three runs. A Barlow got to second on a double in the fifth inning and came home on successive hits by Sawall and Poppy for the only other run of the evening. Dernbach got off a double in the fourth but without results. White walked two and struck two.

Wednesday evening the Edison and the Plywood will clash and Friday the Millers High Lites will meet the strong Hamilton team.

Knapsteins to Play 2 League Games Sunday

Meet Neopit in Afternoon And Clintonville In Evening

New London—The New London Knapstein Brews will meet a tough assignment next Sunday when they clash with the two leaders of the Wolf Valley league the same day. They will meet the undefeated Clintonville team on the home diamond here under the lights in the evening after traveling to Neopit in the afternoon. The play-off for the postponed Clintonville game was arranged last night and Neopit is the regular scheduled game.

Ivan Beckert, Manager Polaski's star pitcher, has been laid up the past two weeks with a poor right arm but is expected to have it in shape for the Clintonville game. "Tip" Krohn will carry the burden on the mound at Neopit in the afternoon so Beckert can save his arm for the Clintonville game.

A new player is likely to be in the line-up Sunday. Palmer of Shiocton, a big man who formerly played with the Seymour club, will probably be seen in the infield. His fast leg is expected to be a real asset to the Brews team.

The Manawa game which was postponed last Sunday probably will be played here some night next week, Tuesday or Thursday. The Brews squad is preparing determinedly with careful practice for the difficult schedule ahead.

"ALL-BRAN SAVED ME FROM A LIFETIME OF SUFFERING"

"I had suffered from constipation for three years. My condition was becoming really serious, when I read of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN."

"I bought a package. Within two weeks, my bowels were regular, and I began to enjoy living again. It has saved me from a lifetime of suffering."—Mrs. Lloyd Baird, 384 S. Bannock St., Denver, Colo.

Try ALL-BRAN yourself. It corrects the common type of constipation. Within the body, it absorbs twice its weight in water, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the system. Just eat two tablespoons daily. Three times daily in severe cases. As a cereal with milk or cream, or in recipes.

Isn't it better to eat this wholesome food than to take pills and drugs that may be harmful and often lose their effect? ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Issue Special Stamps

For Scout Jamboree

The Netherlands which will be hosts to the Boy Scout's fifth world jamboree at Bloemendaal, Vogelensang on the North sea, July 29-Aug. 12, has issued three special stamps to mark the event which will bring together 25,000 boys for two weeks of camping.

A 12-cent stamp in green and black shows the Boy Scout insignia with a 6-cent stamp showing in brown and black drums and flags at an unusual angle while a 12-cent stamp in blue and black reproduces the head of the Hermes of Praxiteles.

Hungary issued special Boy Scout stamps in 1933 when it was host for the fourth world jamboree at Godollo and Roumania has issued several sets of stamps for its national scout jamboree. Siam is another country which has issued postage stamps as a means of recognizing the work of its Boy Scouts.

100-Mile Train Would Carry Pulpwood Used Annually by Four Mills in This Vicinity

BY DON CHRISTIANSEN

A SINGLE trainload of spruce, pine and hemlock logs standing end after end for more than 100 miles would represent, roughly, the amount of pulpwood brought into Appleton, Kimberly, Combined Locks and Kaukauna each year.

A picture of a 100-mile train is not complete, however. Beside it would be other long lines of cars bearing coal, sulphur, limestone, chlorine, alum and similar materials. In the hills back of those long trains would be 12,000 sheep, and that's a lot of sheep, whose sole job would be to produce enough wool to supply felts for the four larger pulp manufacturers in this vicinity. Back farther in the hills would be an army of 1,100 men doing nothing every day in the year except cut down trees.

The work of that army of woodcutters would just give a start to the work of considerably larger army doing all the other things that must be done before a spruce tree in Ontario could be turned into pulp at the Kimberly-Clark, Interlake, Combined Locks or Thilmany mills.

Logs Worth Thousands

Stacked in great stock piles along the Fox river today are tens of thousands of cords of pulpwood, worth hundreds of thousands of dollars. Some of the logs look as though they have been there for years but that's only because of the rapid blackening of the outside of the wood during a few months of seasoning. Not a mill in this vicinity has a stick of pulpwood in its stock piles which is more than about 15 months old.

Every year, the four mills ship in about 225,000 cords of wood, or, roughly, 11,250 carloads.

The annual demands of the Kimberly mill of the Kimberly-Clark corporation for example, would require a 40-mile trainload of logs. That means clearing about 50 acres of timber a day with 300 men doing nothing but cutting down trees and another big crew to handle the business of getting the wood to the Kimberly mill.

Shipped Across Lake

About half the Kimberly pulpwood is cut in Ontario, Canada, floated down rivers into Lake Superior, and caught there in booms. The logs then are loaded onto lake steamers, taken across the lake to Green Bay, and brought by rail to the mill at Kimberly.

The corporation operates a dock at Green Bay where two cranes with clams work 24 hours a day loading and unloading logs. Enlargement of the dock was completed a few days ago and now it is able to accommodate lake steamers 384 feet long.

When the pulpwood is piled at the Kimberly mill, a careful check is made to permit rotation of the supply on hand and use of wood which is properly seasoned to meet mill specifications. The corporation has some processes which require pitch green wood, and others in which seasoned stock is used.

Moved by Rail

The other half of the pulpwood purchased for the Kimberly mill is cut in Wisconsin, upper Michigan and Minnesota and brought directly to the mill by rail. The Canadian timber is produced during the summer while production in the lake states is confined largely to the winter and spring.

The pulpwood used by the Interlake mill in Appleton, a part of the Consolidated Water Power and Paper company, is all spruce, all cut in Ontario and all brought to Appleton through the Saultie, entirely by rail.

When the pulpwood is cut by company employees, the logs are 96 to 100 inches long but if the corporation buys what is known in the trade as "settlers' wood," it's a cinch the logs will be 48 inches long. The company would rather have it in 100 inch lengths and the Ontario natives could save themselves work by doing it that way, but it's no go. The father of Francois, and his father before him, cut wood in 4-foot lengths and so Francois cuts wood in 4-foot lengths and if the pulpwood buyers don't like that they can take a jump in the lake for themselves. It's easy to measure cords when the sticks are four feet long so no city slickers are going to get away with any fancy ideas.

Floated in Rafts

Although the Interlake mill's wood is brought in entirely by rail, much of the wood used by the Consolidated company's mills at Wisconsin Rapids and Biron is towed across Lake Superior to Ashland in huge rafts containing as much as 12,000 cords. Company owned tugboats, one of them a sea-going craft 350 feet long, haul the rafts across the lake. Railroaders get the job from Ashland to the Wisconsin Rapids and Biron mills.

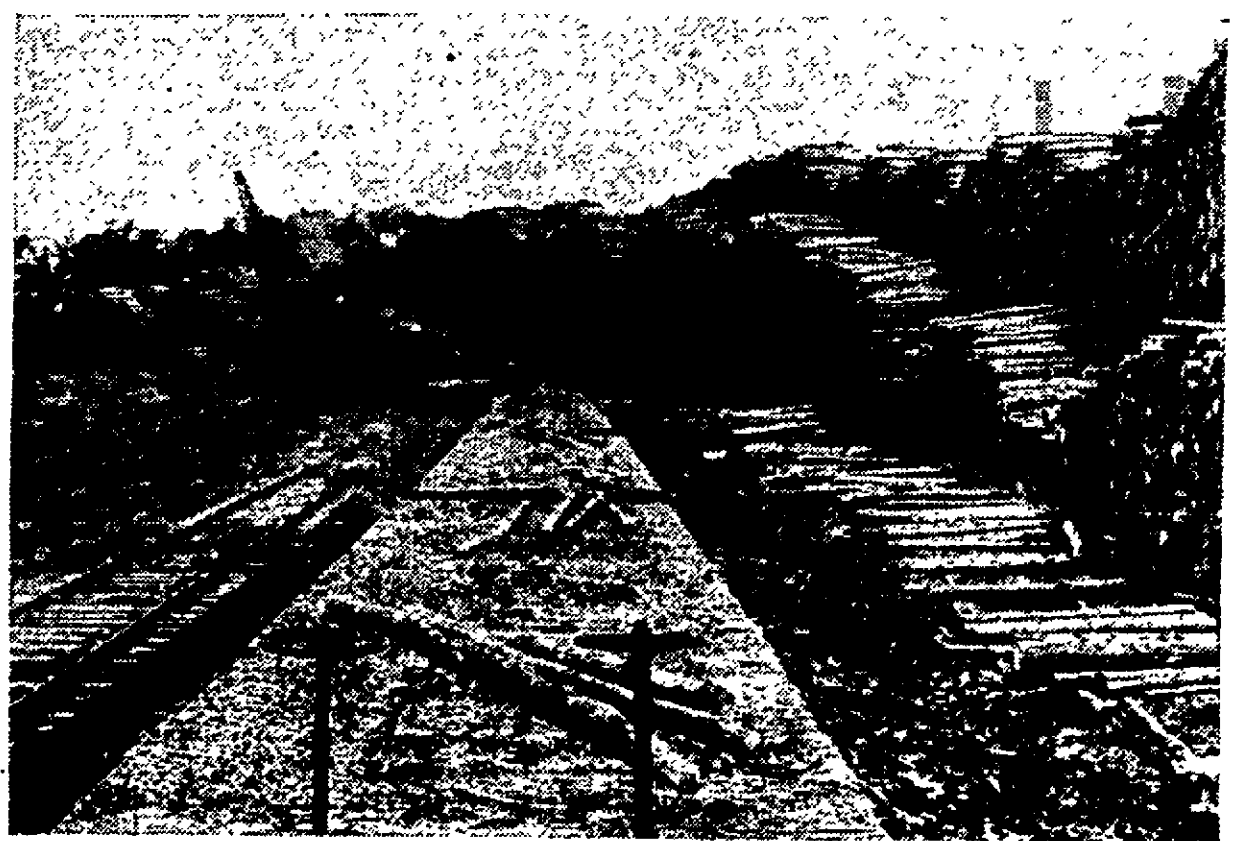

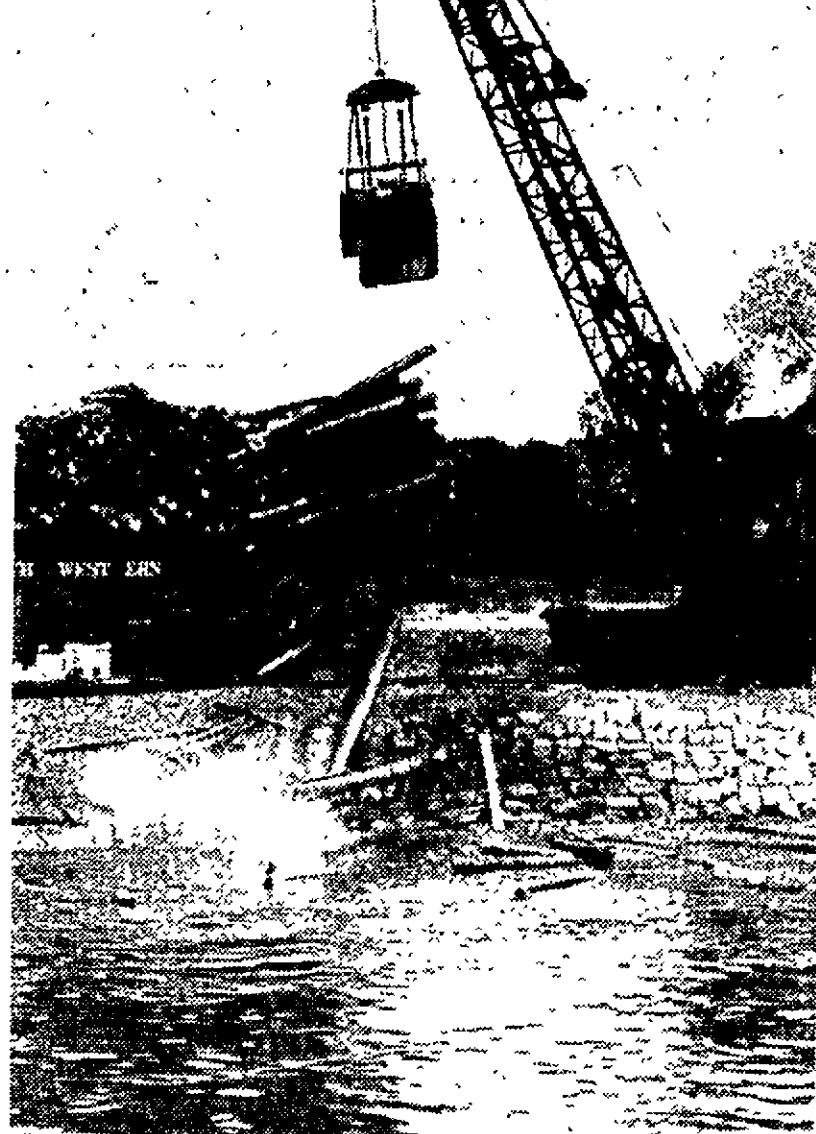

One trick used at the Interlake and Combined Locks mills is to dump the pulpwood logs off the railway cars into a canal or pond. At the Interlake mill, for example, a company owned power canal, which is open except for the period from about Dec. 15 to Feb. 15 each year, is used. Clam equipped cranes take the logs off the flat cars like a bunch of matches sized between a thumb and forefinger, and dump them, without apology, into the canal. There the logs float about until workmen, armed with pikes, shove them onto a conveyor that takes them into the mill.

Get Bark Treatment

The canal or pond not only facilitates handling of the wood but gives such logs as are still covered with bark a treatment that helps considerably in the subsequent "barking" process. About 20 carloads can be floated in the canal at one time.

During the brief period during the winter when the canal is frozen, a "hot pond" is kept open with exhaust steam. In addition, the Interlake started an idea, since adopted by several other mills, of operating a submerged conveyor on which the bark covered logs, cut into short lengths, are taken for about 20 minutes. After that, the bark comes off with little argument.

The magnitude of the pulpwood handling job at the four major pulp producing mills in this vicinity is illustrated in some measure by these photographs. The upper picture, taken west of the E. John street bridge, shows a "clam" dumping pulpwood into the power canal of the Interlake mill. The "clam" lifts the wood off the freight cars into the canal which can float 20 carloads at one time. The center picture, also taken west of the John street bridge, shows the pulpwood floating in the water. The lower picture, taken in the yards of the Kimberly mill of the Kimberly-Clark corporation, shows thousands of cords of pulpwood in stock piles. A "clam" equipped crane can be seen in the left background unloading wood from freight cars. (Post-Crescent Photos)

This business of moving cars of logs into position to be dumped, and out of the way again to make room for more cars, provides work enough at the Interlake mill alone to keep one railroad switch crew busy the year around.

Use Other Materials

In addition to the great trainloads of pulpwood that wheel into loads of other raw materials are moving in constantly.

At the Interlake mill for example, 500 carloads of coal shipped in annually from mines in West Virginia and Ohio, 150 carloads of sulphur from Texas, 200 carloads of limestone from upper Michigan, 30 carloads of chlorine, 30 tons to a car, from Niagara Falls, N. Y., 25 carloads of alum from Chicago, and all kinds of other stuff from machinery to nails.

The Thilmany Pulp and Paper company, Kaukauna, another major pulp producer in this area, brings in the bulk of its pulpwood from upper Michigan, entirely by rail. Most of it is jack pine with some hemlock, cut in 100 inch lengths. Although it uses a lot of pulpwood, the Thilmany company generally does not carry a large stock of logs. The supply on hand ordinarily would be sufficient to carry normal operations for about four months if all sources of pulpwood were cut off.

About two thirds of the pulpwood used by the Combined Locks Paper company is produced in Northern Michigan and Wisconsin and the remaining third in Canada. The

68 Die in State in Plane, Balloon Crashes

Madison —(U)—Records released today by the state bureau of vital statistics show only one person over 40 years of age killed in plane and balloon accidents in Wisconsin since 1930. Sixty-seven other victims, ranging in age from under ten to the middle thirties, died in crashes. Nine airplane fatalities were recorded in 1936, the bureau reported, among them a girl less than ten years of age.

Since 1930, when the bureau first began listing such fatalities, seven of the plane and balloon crash victims were less than 20 years of age, 42 were in their twenties and 18 in their thirties. Eight of the 68 total dead were females.

OUR OWN HALL OF FAME

Occasionally the Post-Crescent prints news stories of local citizens who have worked forty, or perhaps fifty, and in some instances as much as fifty-five, years at one particular task or with one company.

These make good copy because they are packed full of that indefinable thing called "human interest," but they should have even a higher worth to the public, a value it would be a great mistake to overlook.

Perhaps the person whose story is printed has worked a life-time in a machine shop, perhaps he has spent his days running a neighborhood grocery, or he may have directed the affairs of some particular "run" in one of the numerous spheres called trade activity.

Careers such as these more truly and vividly represent American life than those of men who are forever demanding public attention with some tale of woe or weighing their importance by the amount of noise they happen to make. If an artist were painting some extensive mural in which he attempted to catch and record the life and the moods of the American people it is characters such as these, dependable, steady and trustworthy, that would be sought.

Sometimes as these stories are printed one might almost feel himself saying: That man ought to be in the Hall of Fame. Which leads inevitably to the conclusion that these halls of fame, as natural among a race as a spire on a church, are conducted in a highly faulty manner unless they make an earnest effort to find character, which should be fame, but unfortunately is not.

No one will ever know when men started to create great institutions in order to perpetuate as well as they could the features, the form, the deeds and the lives or those who stood out head and shoulders above their fellows. The Parthenon was built at Athens 500 years before Christ. Rome, 300 years later, started the Pantheon which Paris later copied. Westminster Abbey reflected a similar attempt when the English people became conscious of their own importance and the valor of their deeds. Statuary Hall at Washington is an American recognition of this same human trait. But the so-called Hall of Fame, a memorial to famous Americans at New York University and which was instituted about 40 years ago is the most ambitious plan of this character that has grown on this continent.

It is noteworthy that names or statues placed in halls of fame have become more genuinely true to the national character as the people have weighed more carefully human worth. In the earliest days, and even today in some countries, the monarch, though so weak mentally as to necessitate a regent to rule in his stead, represented his period in the National Hall of Fame probably because it was an offense to even think that anyone could be more worthy than the king. The Hall of Fame at New York University is subject to the specific rule that 15 different classes of citizens shall be recommended for consideration but the charter still lacks in a high essential in that it fails to direct that these who have been steadfast for long periods of time and have thus disclosed character of a type of which the nation should be proud must be singled out as men of fame.

It may seem like a small matter. Perhaps to some it is. But the laurel of genuinely earned distinction to most people is wealthier than gold. Fame should be treated as synonymous with worth, and worth is not publicity or notoriety but intrinsic value.

We would not keep Grant from the Hall of Fame. His plans have brought admiration from every professional soldier the world over who minutely examined them.

But the men who proved his strategy a success were the fellows who had that steady, stubborn, persistent and eternal perseverance that sticks to a task everlastingly, and whether to the patter of bullets or of rain.

THE CLASSES OF '37

Everywhere across this broad land school doors are swinging open for the last time for the boys and girls of the classes of 1937.

Most of the graduates are products of schools in which teaching theory has been undergoing change since their freshman days. There happens to be disagreement about the worth of some of the change. Some of their elders believe that changes can result only in the weakening of moral fibre. No less a critic than Hendrik Willem Van Loon, the historian, told members of the National Education association some weeks ago that "... during the last three generations we have done nothing but give unto our children. We gave them schools that were far too good for them. We deprived them of all trouble and made learning as easy and pleasant and painless as going fishing. ... We told them there were nice little jobs awaiting them just around the corner, with a nice wife and a mink coat and a nice house and a nice mortgage, nicely handled by a nice bank. ... As long as America had stood for hardships, for pioneering, for fighting one's own way through the wilderness ... as long as there had been adventure and uncertainty in the American scheme of things—we had a definite and concrete American philosophy of life." He added that the schools today are "supposed to do a hundred things they were never intended to do."

Mr. Van Loon presents the reverse of the medal. Who really believes that hardship, uncertainty and adventure do not exist nowadays? Certainly not these young people of the classes of 1937.

One has only to talk with them to become impressed by the saneness with which they view their prospects.

They seem to have developed ability in self-guidance and self-direction. They seem to have worked out a philosophy of adjustment to changing times and conditions and to have developed a degree of confidence in themselves and their abilities that cannot help but prove valuable.

HONOR AND CONTRACTS IN OUR LIVES

In a good many ways publicists have declared that "the sanctity of contracts is one of the strong pillars of civilization."

We are apt to either accept or slur over declarations of that kind without picturing their real application in our every day life.

When two people or companies or partnerships or associations enter into an agreement there is something the matter in a serious way if that agreement may be tossed into the gutter by one at any time he feels like it but enforced by him if that is his advantage.

And when people take the time and care to put their agreements in writing because memories are treacherous and they know that even the most honest controversies may only be avoided by making definite contracts and preserving evidence of their terms, then a deliberate or wanton breach of such agreement is a violation of all rules of honor and security.

The most conspicuous thing in the country about the C.I.O. to date in addition to $600,000-Jawn is its violation of its deliberate contracts on so many scores of occasions that we cannot keep track of them.

In this respect the C.I.O. has made itself an irresponsible body. It is courting at the hands of the public some laws that it will dislike very much. And the trouble is that an outraged public opinion may even make those laws more drastic than it should.

The public is going to reason that if C.I.O. can furnish $600,000 for politics it can also furnish that much in damages for breach of contract. Labor has always fought for immunity of its unions from legal liability and has been granted many favors in this regard.

The long seeing vision of Justice Brandeis of the supreme court almost foretold what has been happening recently. In discussing this very subject the jurist said:

"This practical immunity of the unions from legal liability is deemed by many labor leaders a great advantage. To me it appears to be just the reverse. It tends to make officers and members reckless and lawless, and thereby to alienate public sympathy and bring failure upon their efforts. It creates on the part of the employers, also, a bitter antagonism, not so much on account of lawless acts as from a deep-rooted sense of injustice arising from the feeling that while the employer is subject to law, the union holds a position of legal irresponsibility."

Yet it will do the nation no good to go to extremes. A drastic law against labor on account of the wild C.I.O. is exactly what a democracy should not resort to even to offset the extremely unfair Wagner law.

Labor has been given great privileges. The supreme court has sustained them. That means that labor has a friend that doesn't make a practice of looking at election statistics or anything else when action is demanded.

But it is not sound to give into the hands of any people great privileges without corresponding responsibilities. The Wagner law gives the privileges and leaves the public to the tender mercy of such loose lipped gentry as Leo Krzycki who stands in the middle of the road but acts away before the blood flows.

More than 6,000 campgrounds will be ready for this season's vacation visitors to the 160 national forests, the United States Forest Service says.

Since 1920 there have been 18 per cent more men teachers and only 6 per cent more women teachers in the public elementary schools of the United States.

America's school property is valued at $12,050,000,000, including $2,150,000,000 held as endowment and other trust funds. This is an investment of about $400 per pupil.

WHEN, at midnight Saturday I saw the northern lights having for themselves quite a time, it was apparent that some monkey business connected with the weather was about to take place. ... I don't know whether northern lights in June are a rarity, or whether screwy weather is supposed to follow them. ... but it does, darn it, it does. ... and to golf, fishing and tennis addicts. Sunday, June 6, will be known as the day of the Big Wind. ... your correspondent personally just missed having a rain-making drive off the last tee into the gale come back and bounce off his head. ... fishermen's families bid their husbands and fathers frightened goodbyes as they set out on raging waters. ... reports from his players indicate that it took three cracks and a couple of tosses to get a ball back over the net against the wind. ... "oh, the Northern Lights, they've seen strange sights" ...

FEMINE VAGARIES

Love generally lasts as long as the honeymoon does.

Moral suasion may be a good thing for children, but a good, old-fashioned spanking brings quicker results.

Common sense is that which we have such an abundance of and what everybody else seems to lack.

It's a lucky thing for most of us that a looking glass can't laugh.

Bathing suits today seem to have much greater latitude and less longitude than ever.

The less a man does for himself, the more he expects the world to do for him.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE FAMILY PEW

We had to appear in the family pew!
 Father went first with the two little boys.
 Mother's skirt rustled, its taffeta new.
 And Grandmother's petticoats made much less noise.
 Church-going was one of the family's joys.
 We all went together, with Grandfather, too.
 The smaller girls tagging, as little girls do.
 The sermon was long, but we sat quietly.
 "It's fine discipline!" so my Grandmother said.
 In a low tone of voice as she sat next to me.
 And put her worn hand on my perspiring head.
 I always believed her, and sat comforted.
 My Grandmother's sweetness and serenity
 Made the sort of fine person I wanted to be.

The family pew! There was no room to spare
 In the days when we gathered to sing, and to hear
 The rigorous sermons that greeted us there.
 The God that we worshipped commanded our fear.
 But we bounded away from the church with good cheer.
 Our consciences quiet because we could share
 The family pew and the blessing of prayer.

Personal Health Talks

REVIVAL OF THE CONSTITUTIONAL

From an Eastern suburb a reader writes:
 My husband is 75 years old. I am 73. Husband is well for a man of his age. I have what my doctor calls heart muscle failure. We have our dinner in the middle of the day. Will you kindly tell me how long we should wait after dinner before we can take a nap?

From the lady's letter I take it the couple are in comfortable circumstances, free from anxiety, as every man and woman past sixty should be, if ours were a civilized country. I imagine they are not given to overindulgence in food or drink. If that is so, then there is no reason why they should not enjoy a nap at whatever time of day they wish.

It is only folk who eat too fast or too heartily who must not fall asleep immediately after a heavy meal. I would suggest to this couple the plan of having a light lunch in the middle of the day and the main meal of the day at five, six or seven in the evening, especially in the summer time. Then they should cultivate the habit of taking a constitutional every day, forenoon, afternoon or shortly before the evening meal.

If not accustomed to walking, the lady, with myocardial weakness, heart muscle weakness, should set a moderate pace and cover only a short distance at first, say to the end of the block and back, of course taking friend husband along, or a handsome man if he is not keen about it. Gradually this regular dose of exercise should be increased until a daily walk of from one to five miles is enjoyed. As long as there is no breathlessness or undue fatigue after such a walk, the patient with myocardial degeneration or slow heart muscle failure may be sure it is good medicine. Graduated exercise, carefully gauged to suit the present efficiency of the heart, is recognized by all physicians as the best treatment for slow heart muscle failure.

People are again learning to walk. Of course it is a dangerous practice nowadays, walking, what with all the morons and near-drunks who are licensed to run wild and then let off with a mild slap on the wrist when they maim or kill people. But in spite of the traffic hazard and the pollution of the air in city canyons with carbon monoxide, ambulation is still the finest recreation any one except the postman can have.

In our town where walking is ideal the year around (except for the traffic hazard) one would walk miles, forenoon, afternoon or evening, a few years ago without seeing any one else afoot except an occasional domestic hurrying to board a bus at the corner. Today the ambulatory population is growing by leaps and bounds. It appears that every one who can afford it now takes a daily constitutional.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Hormone Injections For Cryptorchidism

Please inform me whether injections of anterior pituitary-like hormone, which you recommend for the treatment of cryptorchidism or undescended testicle in boys, would do any good in the case of a man aged 31 years? (G. K.)

Answer—The treatment might be well worth trying anyway. Any good doctor anywhere can give the course of injections.

Eucalyptus Is oil of eucalyptus of any value or help to the lungs or the bronchial tubes in curing tuberculosis or other disease? (Mrs. M. E. P.)

Answer—It is officially listed in the Pharmacopoeia. It is used chiefly as an inhalant, nose drops, or a spray, well diluted, of course. It is antiseptic, stimulant-expectorant, deodorant.

"GEMINI"

If June 9 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 to 11 a. m., from 2 to 4 p. m., and from 8 to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 to 9 a. m., from 6 to 8 p. m., and from 10 p. m. until midnight.

Wrong conclusions, due to snap judgment, will be the cause of much unhappiness this day, so be sure that you are not guilty of this fault. Many a hope will be realized this day, and new ones born. If meritorious, they are likely to become actualities. It is very important, if you are meeting anyone for the first time, that the chief impression you make is a favorable one. Nerves may be highly sensitive this day, so do nothing that might irritate other people. Loud noises, stridently shrill or sepulchral tones, as well as gruffness, will cause a disagreeing reaction in those who hear them, and may upset some carefully prepared plan. Be sure of your own ground before attempting to tell someone else what to do or not to do, for you might discover you have a similar problem that also requires a happy solution. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are in love, ought to be careful of what they say in the way of a joke this day, because the remark might be taken seriously.

If a woman and June 9 is your birthday, you must be engaged in some line of activity to be contented. You have too much surplus energy not to use some of it in work of a constructive nature.

Should you devote all of your time to social activities you are apt to become bored. Your diction ought to be good, for the chances are you have the gift of gab. Make use of your hands. They are assets that are likely to earn you much money. You ought to have a keenly analytical mind, and exceptionally good judgment when it comes to dealing with people. Politics, acting, or theatrical directing, writing, lecturing, demonstrating or selling are among the activities you should be well qualified to engage in. Marriage most likely will provide you with not only congenial companionship, but a happy home.

The child born on June 9 is usually full of pep and fun. In its teens it is likely to form many valuable friendships that will prove helpful in its professional or business career.

If a man and June 9 is your natal day, your courage ought to be unlimited, and enable you to face any situation. Through law, medicine, contracting, building, chemistry, journalism or the drama you may win an enviable reputation. Successful People Born on June 9:

BOAT OWNERS PROTEST

Editor Post-Crescent—Appleton boatmen are very indignant over the city council's action in ordering the removal of boat houses on the river.

These boat houses in question were built more than 30 years ago, and have not offered any obstruction to navigation up to the present time. They house about $300 in boats and still serve their purposes. They have the right of occupancy by adverse possession.

The city's ownership of the land known as "Lutz Park" ends at the water's edge. When the water is high the land owner has less land, and when the water is low the land owner has more land, but still the jurisdiction ends at the water's edge; therefore, the city council has no jurisdiction in ordering the removal of these boat houses.

If the city council wants these removed they will have to purchase them from the owners, who still have some value in these houses. The city of Menasha has had a problem similar to this. The owner of the boat house was brought into court, and the result was that the city of Menasha had to purchase the right from the boat owner. This is a matter of record.

Many have the wrong idea of what riparian rights constitute. Riparian rights means that the owners of the land bordering a navigable stream or lake, have the right of ingress and egress to the water's edge. It does not mean ownership of lands under the water or to the center of the river in this case. Therefore, the city's jurisdiction ends at the water's edge.

Fond du Lac has one of the finest harbors on Lake Winnebago and the city of Fond du Lac has spent many thousands of dollars to create the harbor and maintain it as a part of its park system.

New London has assigned 350 feet of river frontage to the boatmen and have cooperated with the boating fraternity in many ways to promote the sport.

Menasha offers a public dock to the boatmen for tying up their boats. Provision has been made by them to harbor boats in the new park section created in the past few years.

Okeshaw has a large dock for the boatmen to tie to and are now preparing to have a boat harbor in connection to their park on Lake Winnebago which calls for a long breakwater and a very large expense.

Neenah has a natural harbor and has been improving it annually. A new Yacht Club has just been established using the bay for anchorage.

Even Fremont offers docking facilities to visiting boatmen which brings many hundreds of boats to its water carnivals.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER
 Washington — There seems not to be a solitary soul in Washington who knows positively what can be done about the gold situation. It has gone past the funny stage. All the jokes that can be made about buying gold and locking it up have been told. Now some of the lads who ultimately will have a hand in solving it are dismally passing around a cartoon showing a miner clambering out of a tunnel with a lump of gold in his hand. Eagerly he rushes to Uncle Sam, grabs a handful of bills and heads again for the tunnel. Uncle Sam runs in the other direction with the lump and plunks it into the swelling pile of gold in the pit at Camp Knox, Kentucky.

It is just as silly as that in actual fact. Uncle Sam not only has to bury the gold, but he has to pay interest on the money he uses to pay the miner for digging more gold which the country doesn't want.

Talk of scaling down the price of gold so less will be dug or so less will be brought to the United States simply sends stock markets, foreign and local, into cold chills.

Even now some European buyers are getting rid of American securities and buying dollars instead. The reason is that if the value of gold is cut below $35 an ounce, dollars will become worth more and it will take fewer of them to buy an equivalent trunk full of securities.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau let it be known he was not hunting for world conferences to settle the problem of what the value of gold should be. Such a conference would have to include both Japan and England. Japan wants to continue to sell gold at a high price. It needs the money. A nation can't swallow China without a little heavy sugar.

Likely also England and France would object to fixing their currency parities at its present relation to the dollar, and certainly South Africa would kick like a bay steer.

At $35 an ounce Africa is able to operate low grade mines that wouldn't pay with gold at $20 an ounce.

With Russia's production also increasing and being sold here, the United States is picking off new gold at the rate of a billion dollars a year.

To scale off the value of gold would increase the value of the dollar and so make it hard to export. American agricultural products. So the farm bloc would be up in arms, if the situation in all its intricacies could be made clear to them. Moreover, such a gesture might bring on a setback in the prosperity wave.

Present talk is about the possibility that Morgenthau, by dickering with individual nations, can get them to scale down their gold production. Just what he would have to trade for such a concession is problematical.

pay a personal property tax on their boats. Each year these boat owners must purchase from local business men paint and materials to keep their boats in first class shape. The fuel used must be purchased from local gasoline companies for operation.

In considering all sports the city's appropriations include the tennis courts, a soft ball diamonds, playgrounds, golf courses, swimming pool and annually rent from the college their tennis courts, but have never considered the boating sport as other cities have done. It seems to us that the city of Appleton is trying to discard or discourage the boating sport instead of encouraging it. Now the city's sports above mentioned give the city's business men the opportunity for sales as does the boat owner.

Of the 3500 boats registered in the 37th district which includes Lake Michigan, upper Fox river, lower Fox river, Wolf river, Mississippi river, Lake Superior, THE FOX RIVER has 1500 registered boats. Appleton alone has more than 175 boats and more new boats are being put into service each day. We have a valuation of about $50,000 of boats in Appleton.

With the increase of boats the present facilities are inadequate consequently we must have more. We have only the water to use for navigation purposes. Our overflooded harbor made it necessary to secure permission from the War Department to anchor our boats in the river bend behind the rock dump abrest of Lutz Park. We have received the necessary permission officially. The Lighthouse service has given approval of placing of two red buoys to serve as entrance markers.

At a recent meeting the boat owners unanimously decided to immediately place anchorage buoys in this harbor. The wash from passing boats at the present time causes the anchor boats to rub one another and this means costly repairs to the boats. It is not our desire to be disrespectful, but to cooperate in every respect possible, yet we are forced to protect our interests.

The communication of the Appleton Yacht Club sent into the council for the use of the city owned house on the river front was placed on file. We do not want any party from the city, we are ready to pay rent for its use. Yet when one considers the donations to other sports we feel that the boatman has been left out of the picture.

Silence Chicago—The sixth hour in the maternity ward of a hospital means something to Fire Chief Joseph Sullivan.

When University hospital reported window awnings afire, Chief Sullivan told his men to arrive at the scene quietly. There were no screaming brakes or sounding of sirens and bells.

Then to keep firemen out of the corridors, Chief Sullivan ordered an engine stand raised on the street from which the flames were extinguished. Neither mothers nor babies were disturbed.

Parcels, Letters May Be Mailed Together

Because many persons frequently desire to mail letters with parcels, the post office department has made provisions to permit mailers to attach the letter to the parcel providing correct postage is paid on each, Stephen D. Balliet, postmaster, said today. The letter must be mailed first class with the parcel going at the fourth class rate.

The stamps to cover the postage on the parcel must be affixed to the wrapper of the parcel and those to pay the postage of the letter must be affixed to the envelope of the letter. The letter must be placed on the address side of the parcel for if it is placed on the back, confusion often results.

Under The Capitol Dome

By John Wyngaard
Post-Crescent Staff Correspondent

Madison—Although they are not shouting if from the housetops, some of the Fox River Valley members of the legislature, who are also political leaders in their respective counties, are listening sympathetically to the often repeated proposal that Democrats and Republicans form an alliance to unsat Governor LaFollette and the progressive state administration in the 1938 elections.

Conjecture on the coalition movement in the state has been rampant for some months and as yet little has been done publicly, but legislative politicians' conversations indicate that the subject is being considered by many influential members of both parties.

In any such coalition the Fox River valley area would be a strategic battle ground. Strangely enough the Progressives last fall failed to elect a single assemblyman from the immediate valley counties, and only one member of the state senate. Comments dropped by some of these anti-administration legislators hint that proponents of the conservative alliance idea are courting their support.

A few months ago loyal Irish senators had high hopes for quick passage of their bill to establish a chair of Irish and Gaelic at the state university. Since then, however, there have been frequent delays, and from the recent actions of the assembly, it is doubtful whether the chair will be established at all.

Apparently Irishmen are less influential in the lower house, for there was little excitement or oratory when the bill was considered last week. In fact so little consideration was given the measure that one group of assemblymen considered for a time the introduction of an amendment to insert the word "electric" before the word "chair" in the bill. The jokesters changed their minds, however, voted other changes in the measure.

Friends of Assemblyman Oscar Fritz of LeCrosse are telling this story: Early this session Fritz introduced and obtained passage of a resolution defending the murals in the capitol as the result of some caustic remarks by iconoclastic artist-in-residence John Curry of the state university. Fritz, properly anxious that the folks at home keep informed on his activities, wrote an account of the house's action for the weekly newspapers in his district.

Unfortunately, however, through the slip of a legislative stenographer or a newspaper typesetter, one of the papers in his district published a story about "murals at the capitol."

Young Senator Ken White of River Falls a conservative Republican, will soon become known as the upper house's foremost wit.

White speaks infrequently but when he does he invariably illustrates his arguments with stories and anecdotes which amuse his colleagues and the galleries.

During the long debate over the engrossment of the WDA bill in the senate last week, White accused the Progressive majority bloc of trying to "push it down the people's throats," and told the story of a New York Communist meeting at which an agitator told a crowd of one else, "my client is funny. He doesn't trust courts."

According to reports, the jurists' dignity did not prevent hearty guffaws.

Warmer weather, prolonged debates and the prospect so far of an extended session are not making the tempers of legislators any milder.

Presiding officers in both houses had their difficulties last week in keeping order during the long and bitter debates. On one occasion Speaker Paul Alfonsi, participating in the debate on the floor of the assembly, remarked sharply that Manitowish county's Assemblyman Francis A. Yindra had not received the fullest advantages of his courses in argument in law school. Yindra, whose temper flares easily, and trembling with anger, replied furiously, "there's nothing I can learn from you."

In the senate Lieutenant Governor or Henry Gunderson, himself a newcomer, persists daily to keep the house in order and to straighten out the parliamentary tangles continually brought about by wily members. Twice last week in a single day Gunderson sharply rebuked senators for smoking and reading newspapers during sessions contrary to house rules.

Amusing sidelight on the legislature is the presence of tiny twin daughters of Assemblyman Arthur Hitt of Alma who dart through assembly corridors, and occasionally into the chamber itself to the despair of chamber attendants. . . . Albert D. Shimek's recent remarks about "noodling the goose," have brought about a slogan by his conservative allies that the Progressives are "skinning the goose," whatever that means. . . . many interested parties are still busy speculating on the shaping up of the eighth district congressional race next year.

Farmers Warned To Guard Against New Weed Menace

Find Evidence of General Existence of Yellow Rocket in State

Wisconsin farmers were warned today by A. L. Stone state director of seed and weed control, to guard against allowing Yellow Rocket, a comparatively new weed in this state, to establish itself on their property.

A report to R. C. Swanson, county agent, states that Yellow Rocket is a perennial and the only way to eradicate it is to kill its roots. It grows to a height of about two feet, in bunches or clusters, and has bright yellow, four-parted flowers. Abundant evidence of the general existence of the weed in Wisconsin has been found by the department of agriculture and markets.

It is shallow rooted and does not spread by its roots, Stone reported. It can be pulled easily when it begins to bloom or it can be cut off with a sharp hoe below the surface

Reduce Varicose Swollen Veins

This Safe Easy Way Prove It At Small Cost

Swollen veins may become dangerous and sometimes break. Sufferers are advised to get an original bottle of Emerald Oil at Voigt's Drug Stores or any pharmacist and start to reduce the veins and bunches at once with this healing oil. A small bottle will last a long time because it is very concentrated and a little goes a very long way. Apply night and morning with a soft brush or finger first as directed until the swelling is reduced. Refund is guaranteed if not satisfied. So effective is Emerald Oil that it is highly useful in reducing troublesome simple swellings due to strain and hastens their disappearance.

of the ground. Either way will kill the plant and prevent seeding. "There already are enough troublesome weeds in the state and farmers cannot afford to allow another one to get established," Stone declared in urging farmers to be on the lookout for this weed. "If you have any doubt about it or any other weed pest, send in a specimen and find out just what you have. If it is this weed, don't waste any time setting rid of it."

In certain parts of Wisconsin the Yellow Rocket has taken possession of as much as 40 acres of land, Stone remarked.

He pointed out that it is advisable to wrap any plant specimen sent to the department in some kind of moist or damp material to help keep it fresh and to aid in its identification. He further urged that as much as possible of the root, stem, leaves and flowers be sent in.

Series of Day Camps are Planned for Girl Scouts

FOR the fifth year, Appleton Girl Scout council will offer a series of day camps at the various parks in the city to Girl Scouts and other girls of Appleton beginning Wednesday, June 16. The first camp will be held at Pierce park and it will be the only one before the scouts leave for Camp Onaway at Waupaca.

Day camping is open to all girls, the only requirement being the written consent of their parents. One written permit can suffice for the entire season of day camping. Girls may attend as many sessions as they wish, and a variety of activities and programs are offered. A typical camp program is held at each day camp, and every effort is made to have the day camp sessions as much like a real camp as possible. The patrol system is used in planning the activities and girls, through their representatives, are allowed to plan activities they most enjoy.

Each day camp will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning. The morning activities will be active, including sports and games, trailing, hiking, and nature quests. Girls will be allowed to cook their noon lunches and suggestions will be given them of new types of camp cooking to do. A rest hour will follow lunch at which time the girls will play quiet games and hear stories. The afternoon activities will include handicraft, dramatics and scout skills. A campfire program will conclude each day camp. As in other years, special day camps will be planned around a theme suggested by the girls. On these days the girls appear in costume and the whole day's activities will be worked out to suit the theme of the day.

All girl scouts will receive day camp notices in the mail this week, and girls who are not scouts are welcome to attend the sessions. List Dates Only one day camp will be held before Camp Onaway, on Wednesday, June 16. There will be two day camps following, Camp Onaway, one on Monday, July 19, and the other on Wednesday, July 21. The remainder of the day camps will be held on the following dates: August 18, 23, 25, and 30, and Sept.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood — Eddie Schmidt, the tailor, died the other day but he lives in Hollywood legend as the fellow who staked Adolphe Menjou to his first movie wardrobe. . . . Menjou was broke, needed to dress a part to get a break in pictures, and Schmidt put it on the cuff. . . . Incidentally inaugurating Menjou's career as "best-dressed-man" in pictures.

Menjou says it's true. . . . But he doesn't have to bother about the best-dressed thing any more. . . . Picks and chooses when it comes to parts, and wants no two roles alike. . . . Took his latest, they say, mainly because he gets to play a trombone!

The only dirt in the film version of "Dead End" will be provided by Dave Weingreen, an actor you won't see although he's working on the set every day. . . . Dave is the man in the hole. . . . He shows the earth out of the excavation in the dead-end street. . . . Just part of the background action. . . . You see his shovel but you don't see him. . . .

The language of "Dead End" has been cleaned up, naturally, for screen purposes. . . . On the stage they could swear. . . . They can't on the screen. . . . But William Wyler, the director, is not heart-broken. He says profanity doesn't make drama—but he does admit it's touch on a hard-boiled screen actor like Humphrey Bogart) to be limited to "goodness gracious." . . . If Bogart says "goodness gracious" on the screen, be sure it was dubbed in. . . .

The Malibu lake district, an isolated spot in the hills 50 miles from Hollywood, has a rural grade school with a normal attendance of 15 pupils. Bobby Breen is making a picture, "Make a Wish," and Malibu lake is serving as a boys' summer camp in Maine. About 100 Hollywood boys went on location, and overnight the district could have reported a 1,000 per cent increase in school attendance. The interlopers, bringing the movie's colossal touch, took their reading and "ritin" outdoors, however.

Students to Attend American Youth Meet

Several students of Lawrence college are expected to attend the American Youth Congress which will be held at Milwaukee from July 2 to 5. The student executive committee at a recent meeting voted to pay registration expenses for each of five students who wish to attend.

American Bridge Player Is Sucker for New Tricks

BEWARE THE GREEKS

(Copyright 1937, By Ely Culbertson)

BY ELY CULBERTSON
If the average American is approached on the street and offered $5 bills at the bargain rate of $2.98, he is not apt to make extensive purchases. But put him in a bridge game and he is likely to be an enthusiastic collector of gold bricks. When the opponents are so altruistic as to give declarer entry to an obviously entryless dummy, it is time for declarer to sit up and take notice. Of course opponents are human and make mistakes. But some of these "mistakes" should be viewed with grave suspicion, as in the hand shown below:

The bidding:
South West North East
1 spade 2 spades Pass 3 diam
Pass 3 hearts Pass 4 hearts
3 spades 4 hearts Pass 5 hearts
4 spades 5 hearts Double Pass
5 spades Double Pass Pass

Obviously, the bidding was "cat and mouse" bidding. South attempting to make his freak holding from the very start, thereby to obtain the contract as cheaply as possible. Naturally, West refused to sell out until he felt he had reached his own limit.

As the cards lay, South's contract was undefeatable because, since he could not reach dummy for a club finesse, he eventually would be forced to bang down the ace and drop the singleton king. But that is not the way the hand worked out. West opened the heart king and declarer ruffed. With five clubs missing, the chance of dropping the king seemed remote and, of course, there was no entry to dummy for a finesse. From declarer's point of view, the best chance seemed to be to establish a pseudo squeeze; that is to say, to give the opponents the impression that the South held three diamonds and only one club. (They soon would be able to count his spade length.) To further the impression that he needed to ruff a diamond, South promptly laid down the diamond king, knowing, of course, that the opponents would remove dummy's trump to prevent a possible ruff.

That is just what happened. East took the diamond king and promptly shifted to a singleton spade. To declarer's astonishment, the king held the trick! West had played low and declarer found himself in dummy. Now, a good player in declarer's place would have viewed this remarkable occurrence with the utmost suspicion. He would have seen that no degree of error on the opponents' part could have resulted in his gaining entry to dummy and therefore would have concluded that it had not been an error. Declarer's actual finesse to the club queen therefore was gullibility personified. He had been trapped by West with a play that should not have deluded a baby. This, however, is not a criticism of West's strategy. He had set up the only protection possible to his singleton club king.

Admittedly, he was fortunate in being opposed by such a gullible declarer. But at least he had supplied the gold brick.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

It is the first deal of the rubber and your opponent has become declarer at hearts. The turned trump is the king of hearts and the information card is the eight of spades. Should you bid nulls with this hand:

♠ J 9 7 ♥ J 8 7 ♣ Q J 7 2 No. You should defend at hearts. At nulls you probably would have to win a trick because your opponent might have the nine or seven of spades or the eight and nine of clubs. But at hearts your opponent would be unlikely to score a game because he cannot have the Jo-Jotte and he lacks the high counting nine of trumps. Bid nulls if your opponent has a part-score.

Tuesday is Expert's day in Ely Culbertson's column. Write your bridge comments, suggestions, and interesting hands to him, care of this paper. For questions, remember to inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Old Gardener Says:

BY E. I. FARRINGTON

Poppies can be sown now to give an abundance of bloom late in the summer. They grow very quickly from seed and will be blooming in an amazingly short time. The seeds are to be sown where the plants are to grow, as poppies do not transplant readily. It should also be kept in mind that the seed is exceedingly small and that it should never be planted deeply. The best way to handle it is to mix it with a little sand and then to scatter it in rows along the ground. Press the seeds into the soil with the side of a board. A little soil can then be sifted over the rows. The plants should be thinned to seven or eight inches apart.

The Sun's Mighty Flames

On the day of a total eclipse of the sun, our thoughts travel to the mighty light which shines upon our earth, day after day, year after year.

Mighty flames leaping from sun.

The Aztecs of ancient Mexico used to say that the sun in the sky was the fifth one which had shown upon the earth. One sun they declared, had been swallowed by a jaguar, and another had been put out by a whirlwind. The third had been lost when it rained fire, and the fourth had been "drowned" in a flood.

Legends of that kind may seem rather foolish to us, but the Aztecs' beliefs may be explained in part at least by total eclipses which were observed in Mexico. When they saw the sun suddenly "go out," it must have seemed as if they were losing it, and that a little later a new sun was born. They probably had no way of knowing that the moon was getting in the way of the sunshine.

My grandmother once told me about a total eclipse which took place during her girlhood on a plantation in Louisiana. She said that it made the negroes on the plantation believe the end of the world was at hand. Some of them climbed to the roofs of barns, and "waited for wings to sprout on their shoulders, so they could fly away for the happy life of the next world."

Nowadays we learn about an eclipse of the sun well in advance of the day on which it takes place. We await the event with interest, and scientists are ready to give special study.

Facts have been learned during eclipses about the sun's corona. The corona is a pearly white light which appears to be produced by thin gas above the sun's surface. Comets have been known to pass through the corona, but the gas has not caused them to "slow up," as would have happened if they had gone through heavy gas.

In addition to the corona, the sun has flames of mighty size which shoot up many thousands of miles. These can be studied during an eclipse, but it is also possible to study them by blocking out the central ball of the sun by placing a dark disk in front of the telescope.

In 1919, photographs were made of a gigantic flame which rose from the sun's surface during a period of six hours. The first photograph showed the flame to have a height of 125,000 miles, and the last photograph showed the topmost part of it had risen to a height of 410,000 miles! Think of fire traveling so far upward, and at such speed!

Sometimes the flames shoot so high above the sun's surface that they seem to "break off," and go into outer space where they are lost to sight.

Children Conditioned for Toughness by Experiences

BY ANGELO PATRI

Tough Tillie is three years old. Nature was not kind to her. Tillie has no beauty of line, no grace of movement, no charm of manner to make her road easy. Her stout solid little body is set on a pair of the stockiest, and fattest little legs imaginable. Her head is squared and set low on her thick shoulders. She is powerful where her playmates are weak, but that counts against rather than for her just now.

I saw Tough Tillie first one afternoon when she was sent out to play a while in her own yard, a yard separated from the next one by a low hedge that marked a line without shutting out a view. Tillie was standing squarely on the line that marked the limits of her liberty, sticking out her tongue at two exquisitely lovely little girls of her own age who chanted from the opposite side of the hedge, "Tough Tillie, Tough Tillie."

It was plain that Tillie was more hurt than angered by this treatment. As she was doing the only thing she knew how to do—fight. She squared her shoulders and shook her fist and made a threatening forward gesture. That amused her tormentors greatly and they renewed their chant "Tough Tillie, Tough Tillie, she fights like a boy."

When the two attackers had had enough of this they linked arms and disappeared behind the hedges in a gale of laughter. Tough Tillie stood on the line, looking after them. The assumed anger and its pose faded quickly from her face and body and a wistful saddened expression took its place. Tillie felt pretty bad about something that was not quite clear to her. Those girls didn't like her and they called her Tough, and being tough was all she could do to preserve her face.

I wondered what Tillie's mother and father and friends were going to do about it. Three years old is very young to begin to suffer, but that was exactly what had come to Tillie. She was learning that she was not beautiful like these others, and there was nothing she could do about it. She didn't like being teased and she didn't like being called "Tough Tillie," and she didn't like the way she looked and felt. All she could do was suffer. Children are not born to toughness such as Tillie was cultivating for her defense. They are conditioned to toughness by their experiences. They are conditioned to self-defensive attitudes against their tormentors. If parents were watchful they could condition the children to meet these unhappy experiences with fortitude and some degree of successful opposition. Tillie should be called by her name, Matilda. It belongs to her sturdy strength. She should be taught to cherish and to like her health and strength, and to train it toward the usefulness that is in store for it. Matilda's strength

Facial Is Requisite For Bride

BY ELSIE PIERCE

SHE who will march to the strains of Lohengrin cannot afford to have her face show strains of shopping. A splendid pick-up after a round of hectic shopping, dressmaker fitting, a conference with decorator, etc., is a facial.

If the purse permits, plan to have a series of facials before the day of the wedding march. I can well remember when I myself felt so tired. I walked into my favorite beauty salon and said, "I'm so tired I'm going to cry." And the manager of that salon said, "No, you're going to have a facial instead." Fortunately she arranged one right then and there, without an appointment, but on general principles it is better to have your appointment beforehand.

The operator worked in semi-darkness and as her skilled fingers whisked over my face, she moldered with cream and tonic, pinched and massaged. I slowly, surely felt myself sinking blissfully into deep sleep. Then she applied a mask, went over the face and neck with ice, applied the tie-up to the chin and left the room entirely dark. All this seemed as in a dream, for I was resting luxuriously. She may have been gone ten minutes or an hour, I don't know, but I do know that it seems like a full night's sound rest to me and when she finally applied the make-up I felt a new woman.

Home Facial

If you cannot afford a few face treatments at a reputable beauty salon, the next best thing is to recruit someone in the family to give you a facial in as comfortable a place as you have available. You can, in fact, give yourself a facial at home, combining the preliminary steps of cleansing while you take a warm bath, then apply nourishing cream, lie down in a darkened room with witch hazel pads over your eyes and let your entire body go limp. Think of absolutely nothing. Force your mind to be a blank. Breathe deeply. You may fall asleep if you try hard enough not to think of the many, many details you still have to do. And you'll be brighter-eyed for it—no dark circles or hollows or strained lines around the eyes.

I have a bulletin outlining step by step the Facial Routine to follow at home. It is available to Brides—present, past and future—for a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope. Address Miss Pierce in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

WEDDINGS
Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to ask a friend to play the organ at my wedding, but she is not the organist of our church. Will it be all right to have her come in and take the regular person's place at our organ without saying anything to him? I don't want to do anything that could be considered discourteous or improper, but I would like to have my friend.

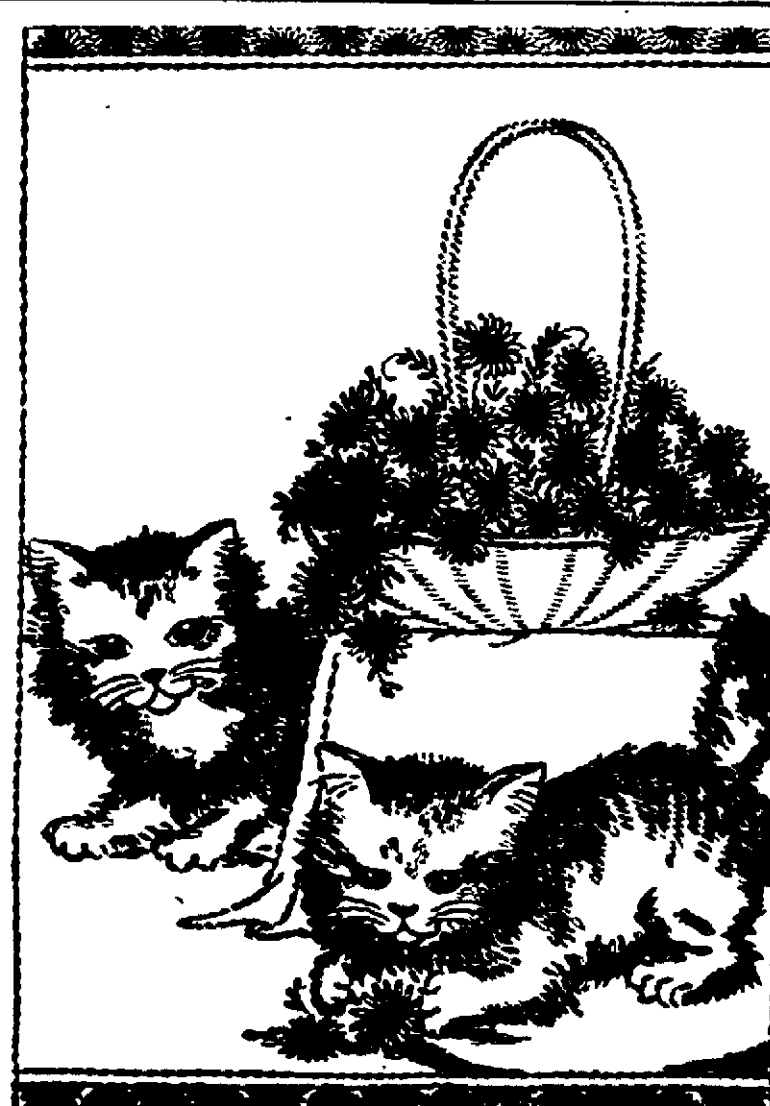

Answer: I think it would be very discourteous not to discuss the matter with the church organist first.

coupled with her keen intelligence offers great opportunity, far greater than that of the slender beauty of her tormentors, but Tillie does not know that. Maybe somebody close to her, or to him who is her brother is distressed, could make the matter a bit clearer.

Wardrobe Necessary for Girl's Success in Life

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—Our home economic class is to debate this subject: "How does a well-chosen wardrobe add to a girl's chance of success in life?"

DOROTHY DIX

homey girl can make herself an eye-catcher if she knows her lines and her colors, and picks out clothes that flatter her instead of those that throw a searchlight on her every defect. Nine-tenths of the girls who have reputations as beauties simply know how to comb their hair and buy their frocks.

If you tell him that for reasons of sentiment you would like to have your friend play the wedding march, I am sure he will be glad to cooperate.

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please explain about the use of all white suits at a daytime wedding in hot July? Could they be worn by the men when the bridesmaids are wearing very formal types of dresses and the bride's dress ends in a long train, or would they be suitable at only the simplest organ or other cotton type of wedding?

Answer: Of course the definition of simple is a rather elastic term. But at every wedding it is proper that the bride wear a veil and enough of a train to sweep a little way out upon the ground, or a long train might be possible if the material of her dress were of cotton lace or mull or net or anything sheer and summery. Bridesmaids' dresses of organdy, would, in my opinion, be prettiest—much. In other words, to have the bride and bridesmaids dressed in satin and

Answer: Well, my dear, next to having a noble character and being endowed with all the higher virtues, the most valuable thing that a girl can possess is a well-chosen wardrobe. It is a first aid to success, and a rod and staff to lean upon in every emergency of life. The ways in which it will help you are too numerous to mention, but here are a few of them:

Every girl's success in the world depends to a great extent on her looks, and pretty clothes are a stand-in for beauty. These needn't be expensive, but they must be suitable to the wear and adopted to the occasion. Venus herself would look like a frump in shorts and a flowered hat, but even a homely girl can make herself an eye-catcher if she knows her lines and her colors, and picks out clothes that flatter her instead of those that throw a searchlight on her every defect. Nine-tenths of the girls who have reputations as beauties simply know how to comb their hair and buy their frocks.

A well-chosen wardrobe gives a girl self-confidence and poise. The knowledge that she is well dressed sets a woman at ease and makes her put her best foot foremost, whereas the realization that she looks like a dowd takes every spark of courage out of her and makes her act as dumb as she looks. An evening dress covered with spangles makes even a stupid woman seem scintillating, but the most brilliant wit could not flash in a limp chiffon that needed to go to the cleaners.

A well-chosen wardrobe helps a girl by advertising her intelligence and judgment. A woman's clothes are what she is judged by to a large extent. If she is given to fluffiness, we set her down as frivolous. If she is tailor-made we size her up as being competent. If she wears solid colors and gowns that show pressing and dirty gloves and shoes with run-heeled heels, we know she is a careless sloven who would never do good work.

No girl who applied for a job would ever get it if she was diked out in inappropriate finery, or if she was plastered with phony jewelry and rattled with bangles as she walked. The employer would think that he wanted somebody who looked like a good business woman, not some one who had just dropped in from an all-night party and hadn't had time to change her clothes.

Nor would a girl get the job who had a coat of one color, a blouse of another and whose wardrobe seemed to be assembled from the scrapbag. An employer would say that such a girl would be slap-dash in her work and would pay no heed to details. The girl who would get the job would be one who was clean and well groomed and whose dress silk and the men dressed in cotton could not make a very happy combination. Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be improper for my daughter to accept her future mother-in-law's wedding dress? My own wedding dress is too big and requires considerable alteration to be made to fit my child, but the groom's mother and my daughter wear the same size.

Answer: According to convention, the groom's family does not supply the bride's dress. This rule can of course be broken when there is a very real affection between the bride and her future mother-in-law, so that the bride's impulse to wear the dress is one of sentiment and not of mere convenience. Do you see? In other words, unless she really wants to wear the dress because the mother of her husband wore it, it would be much better that your dress be made to fit her.

was dark and simple and serviceable.

It has been said that clothes do not make the man, but they make about nine-tenths of a woman and she can't be too particular in learning how to dress.

Dear Miss Dix—I am thinking of marrying my mistress. Before I met her she had had two affairs with other men and the knowledge of this at times makes me completely miserable and causes me to say cruel things to her, but because she loves me so she says nothing in reply, but tries to please me in every possible way. This girl does not smoke and never took a drink in her life and is refined and retiring. We are both of the serious, conscientious type. Can we be happy together? THE MAN.

Answer: Your idea of what constitutes a refined and retiring, conscientious and serious-minded girl is so different from mine that I feel that I cannot prophesy concerning the outcome of your marriage with the lady you describe. However, I am sure of this one thing, and that is that, if you marry her, knowing her past as you do, that you will be a cad if you ever reproach her with it. DOROTHY DIX.

Pegler Scores Roosevelt On Income Tax Payments

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington—Well, for gossakes, Gussie, will you listen who is beeting about evasion and avoidance of the income tax? If it isn't our old friend, Mr. Roosevelt, who has been getting his civilized society at a cut rate ever since 1929, and at a time when people in much lower brackets are paying not only the full rate but something extra on account of the panic and the necessities of deserving Democrats and all.

Mr. Roosevelt was governor of New York at $25,000 a year from 1929 to 1933. In addition to this pay the governor of New York gets a house and, in addition to the house, he gets his civilization absolutely free. If he wants it, or could in Mr. Roosevelt's time as governor and up until a week or so ago there was a political superstition that the governor, the lieutenant governor and all the high-priced judges in the state should be exempt from the state income tax as well as the federal.

The state tax is small by comparison, and was even smaller in Mr. Roosevelt's time, but he didn't know he was supposed to be exempt from the state's share of the price of civilized society, so he paid his dues, and no kidding, while other people earning much less and paying their own house-rent had to look Mr. Whiskers dead in the eye and drop a little something on the drum to pay for their civilization.

Just lately the New York legislature rescinded the state exemption of the governor and the high-priced judges and all who were getting their civilization through the passage. But they still do not have to pay any federal income tax, although there are literally thousands of patriots in the city and state drawing from $3,000 to $28,000 a year.

President Gets Salary
Plus $25,000 Travel Expense
You ought to see the list of political patriots on the pay-books of New York City who draw $6,000 and $9,000 a year exempt from the big federal tax, although subject to the comparatively small state tax. As president, Mr. Roosevelt now gets $75,000 a year and free use of a big, furnished house with large gardens, lovely view and plenty of closet room. He also gets $25,000 a year for his travel expenses, and whenever he wants to go out and catch a fish by the upper lip or cruise to Honolulu, he just telephones some admiral to gas up a cruiser and bring it around to the dock. There is his incorporated yacht, free, unless, possibly, he slips a little folding money under his plate to pay his mess bill.

He also gets plenty of expensive cars and chauffeurs for himself and guests, personal and official. I will bet something that if you got $75,000 a year and a house from some private employer the treasury would give you a terrible wrestle over the proposition that your personal use of the house should be reckoned as income on a rental basis, and clip you for a tax on the same. Your personal and social use of the cars and chauffeurs would be computed and taxed, too. They anyway, they kept city cops detailed in the block where his mother lives, and that costs money you may be sure.

I seem to personalize the issue, but that is only because Mr. Roosevelt poked the finger of scorn at people, who take advantage of their rights under the law, but overlooking that enormous class of very well paid cut-rate passengers on the ship of state of which he is a conspicuous member.

True, he complied with the law, but it is only a technicality which gives him certain exemptions. And he was complaining of the immorality of other people who take advantage of technicalities, which appear to have the color of legality, wasn't he?

Schedule Conference
On Control of Weeds
An all-day meeting on weed control, to which town chairmen, village presidents, city mayors, weed commissioners and farmers have been invited, will be held at the courthouse Thursday, according to R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

The session was arranged through contact with the state department of agriculture and markets. Swanson announced. A representative of the state weed and seed control office will lead a discussion of the weed law during the forenoon session and methods of weed control, chemical eradication and identification of plants in the afternoon.

69 Drivers Lose Licenses in May

Revocations Ordered for Variety of Reasons,
State Report Shows

The licenses of 69 Wisconsin motorists, including one from Appleton, one from Waupaca, one from Neenah and one from Hortonville, were revoked during May, a report to the Appleton police department from the office of Theodore Dammann, secretary of state, shows. The revocations were for a variety of reasons ranging from reckless or drunken driving to manslaughter.

During the same period, the licenses of 68 drivers were suspended, including one from Menasha and one from Kaukauna. A number of the suspensions were the result of damage judgments accruing from negligence.

The licenses of 53 drivers were taken up for indefinite periods, 52 of them because of defective eyesight. The fifty-third driver listed is an epileptic, the report stated. The list included two drivers from Weyauwega, one from Waupaca, two from Appleton, one from Neenah and one from Kaukauna.

There were 56 licenses reinstated including one from Neenah and one from Kaukauna.

Governor Approves Jace
Statewide Plan to Give
Medals for Heroic Deeds

Governor Philip F. LaFollette today approved the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce Heroes Award project to publicly honor individuals who at the risk of their own lives attempt to save the life of another person.

The governor also accepted an invitation to personally present a medal to the close of each year to the outstanding hero in the state as chosen by a special committee. The following men have been asked by the governor to serve on this committee: William C. Knoelk, chairman of the Milwaukee Safety committee; Fred W. Braun, employer of Mutuals Wausau; Harry Eiken, director of vocational education, Green Bay; F. E. Town, Manitowish, president of the Wisconsin Council of Safety; Thomas F. Davlin, Madison chairman of the state highway commission.

Originated in Appleton
Fred Boughton, Appleton, who originated the idea, presented plans of the project at the state junior chamber of commerce convention at Rhinelander recently and the state executive committee endorsed the project to join in the movement. National endorsement of the project will be sought by Marvin C. Hurley, national executive secretary, and Lawrence Bray, Waukesha, state delegate to the national Jace convention in Denver June 11-15.

Under the plan, each Jace unit will send the list of its community heroes each year to the committee. This committee then will select the outstanding hero in the state. Fred Boughton has been named chairman of the state committee and is being assisted by James Chapin, Menasha, and Clarence Bursack, Oshkosh. Complete briefs of the project are being prepared and will be mailed to Jace units in the state soon.

The new project as concerning Outagamie county provides for the awarding of medals for deeds since April 1 in which a life was saved. The award will be made at a testimonial banquet when the hero will be the guest of the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Richard Joyce and George T. Prim, chief of police, will assist Mr. Boughton in investigating hero claims in the county. Awards will be made throughout the year as the committee decides.

Before any awards are made, the hero and the rescued person will be contacted and written statements concerning the deed obtained from each. Witnesses, if any, will be asked to give opinions concerning the rescue.

Assembly Group
Considers Move
For Adjournment

House Sees Little Chance
Of Ending Legislative
Session July 2

Madison —(U)—The senate resolution for final adjournment of the legislature on July 2 reposed today with the assembly rules committee after the house virtually had decided it was impossible to close the session at that time.

Assemblyman Charles A. Budlong (R), Marinette, contended the senate was "bluffing."

"I know we can't finish our business by July 2 but I refuse to be bluffed," he said. "If the senate is trying to put this issue on our shoulders I think we should concur and send the resolution back to them."

With important administration bills still to come—including the tax bill—the assembly voted 44 to 31 to refer the resolution to the committee on rules. It will have to be reported out by that body before the house can vote on it.

Fears Filibuster
Assemblyman John Grobbschmidt (D), Milwaukee, objected to the resolution on the claim it might lay the groundwork for a filibuster, but he asked that all leaves of absence be cancelled.

The assembly had reconvened after the weekend recess and some 25 members were absent.

Pending on the supplementary calendar were more than a dozen motions for reconsideration of bills which previously had been acted upon and a number of them were placed on the calendars of Wednesday and Thursday.

After Grobbschmidt's motion for cancellation of leaves had been adopted the house went back to its calendar and disposed of the Ru-bin bill which shortens the hours of firemen in first second and third class cities. The bill previously had been ordered to a third reading and by a vote of 48 to 23 the assembly refused to reconsider that action.

The motion for reconsideration was offered by Assemblyman Maurice Fitzsimmons (D), Fond du Lac. The measure now goes to the senate.

Other Assembly Action
Other actions taken by the assembly included:

Refused reconsideration of the vote by which the Kiefer sterilization bill was passed last week.

Reconsidered and engrossed the bill permitting the state superintendent of public instruction to be the sole agent for the certification of teachers.

Revoked and passed the senate bill which allows trackless trolleys to operate without car-fenders, commonly known as cow-catchers.

Wide Search Is
On for Missing
Society Beauty

Fiance Receives Note
Threatening to 'Re-move' English Girl

London —(U)—Fears that blond "Didi" Batty might have been abducted were raised today after her fiance disclosed he had received a note threatening to "remove" the missing society beauty.

High officials of Scotland Yard took personal charge of the far-flung search and issued instructions to watch every port and airfield in the country.

The fiance, Michael Asquith, son of the Hon. Herbert and Lady Cynthia Asquith, was expected to interrupt his final examination for an Oxford degree to come to London and tell Yard officials about the letter.

The message was received by young Asquith, whose father is heir presumptive to the earl of Oxford and Asquith, before the disappearance of the former photographer's model June 1 from the London home of her childhood friend, Viscountess Long.

The letter mysteriously warned Asquith:

"Unless you take better care of Miss Batty she will be removed."

The letter was handed over to Scotland Yard experts for study along with seven other anonymous letters containing similar threats which were received by Miss Batty.

All were typewritten.

Diana dropped out of sight June 1 after returning to Lady Long's home from a luncheon engagement. She had been staying with her friend for the coronation festivities.

After her guest's disappearance, Lady Long disclosed that "Didi" had been attacked on coronation night, May 12, by an unknown man who slashed her forehead with a razor. The strange assault took place only 100 yards from the Long home.

The unexplained attack was unreported at the time, Lady Long told police, because Miss Batty protested that if it were made public, it would be repeated.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Still, 347 W. Foster street, at St. Elizabeth hospital Monday.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Guilfoyle, 510 Wisconsin avenue, Kaukauna, at St. Elizabeth hospital today.

London Evangelist

Evangelist Harry W. Giles of London, England, will give a series of five lectures on "Archaeology and Prophecy" beginning this evening and continuing through Saturday at the New Appleton tabernacle. The lectures will be accompanied by over 200 colored slides which the speaker says show how prophecies of more than 2,000 years have been fulfilled.

The following subjects have been announced: Tuesday, "The Romance of Archaeology," Wednesday, "Fulfilled Prophecies that Confirm the Bible," Thursday, second part of Wednesday's sermon, Friday, "Wonderful Palestine Today," Saturday, "Signs of the Times or Watchman, What of the Night?"

Funeral Directors

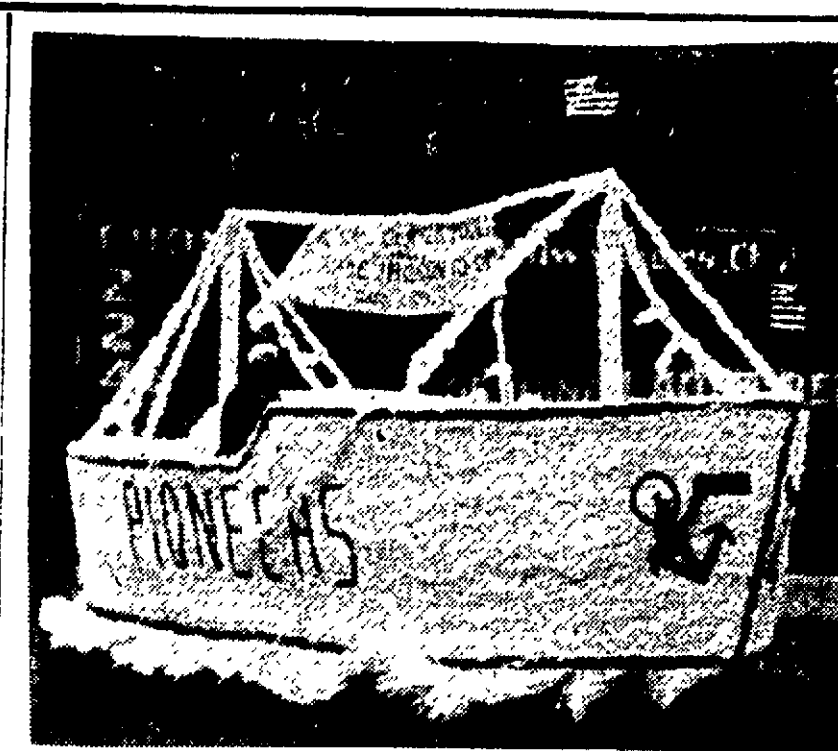

Plan Annual Meeting
Funeral directors and embalmers from every section of the state are expected to attend the annual 1-day school Wednesday which will be held in conjunction with the annual convention of the Wisconsin Funeral Directors and Embalmers association Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, June 9, 10 and 11.

Appleton men expected to attend some sessions of the convention include Edgar Schommer of the Schommer Funeral home; George H. Buesing and August Trettin of the Brettschneider Funeral home; Orrin Frank and Oscar Hoh of the Hoh Funeral home; George Johnson, L. J. Smith, Alex. Minton and Gerhard Utzman of the Wichmann Funeral home.

It Is Said--

That A. J. Lytle, architect at the new senior high school building site, estimates that a person walking around the entire foundation of the new school would walk about one mile and a half.

That exactly 89 years ago today, the Rev. Father Vander Brook, the first Catholic priest of Little Chute, arrived in Little Chute from Holland with about 50 other persons who settled in this vicinity. These Holland people who came in three ships from across the sea are the ancestors of most of the Holland population of Little Chute and nearby territory.

OUTAGAMIE COUNTY FLOAT WINS PRIZE

The float above, entered by the Outagamie County Pioneer association in the mile-long parade Monday at Oshkosh during the state convention of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool, was awarded second place in the competition. First prize was given to an elaborate float entered by the Dodge county unit of the Milk Pool. The parade included five bands besides the floats and marked the opening of the 3-day convention.

Suggest Plan to Remove Legislators
From Behind Piles of Books, Reports

Madison —(U)—With a hammer, a saw and $800, the chief clerks and sergeants of the legislative figure that members of the assembly can be rescued from behind the great stacks of books that are piled high on their desks.

The longer the session lasts the bigger the piles get.

Take 900 assembly bills, plus amendments, 500 senate bills, completed acts, resolutions and daily copies of the journal of proceedings, bind them together in volume and you have enough to fill any fair-sized bookcase.

But assemblymen have no bookcases. They must stack all this matter on the front of their small flat-top desks and about this time of year only the gray hair of Ben Rubin, of Milwaukee, the smallest man in the assembly, is visible over the ramparts.

Through a joint resolution the legislature instructed the clerks and sergeants to go into a huddle on this program. They have now submitted their report:

Remove the front panel from each assembly desk, put in shelves and there you are. All an assemblyman need do is swing about in his swivel chair and his bookcase is behind him—that is all members except those in the back row. Other arrangements would have to be made for them.

The total cost was figured at $800. Senators are not subjected to the current inconveniences of the assembly because each one has a revolving bookcase adjacent to his desk.

Madison A. F. L. Official

Granted Reinstatement

Madison —(U)—The Madison Federation of Labor, revoking a suspension order issued three weeks ago, reinstated Cedric Parker as treasurer at a meeting last night.

A trial committee report exonerating Parker of charges filed over the signatures of 12 craft unionists was approved and accepted over the objection of A. H. Nelson, business agent of the A. F. of L. Electrical Workers' union, and Charles Halverson of the Musicians' union.

Parker was charged with violating A. F. of L. regulations by assisting in organizing unions for the C. I. O. Nelson said he would appeal to the A. F. of L. executive council.

Man, Long Believed

Dead, Visiting Sister

Wausau —(U)—Robert Gruenewald, Fairmont, Minn., long believed dead, returned here yesterday to visit his sister, Mrs. August Meilahn. Leaving here in 1931, Gruenewald wandered about the nation without writing home. Recently he wrote to find if any of his family still was living. Mrs. Meilahn responded.

Pier at Oshkosh Has

Assembly's Approval

Madison —(U)—The assembly voted today to permit the city of Oshkosh to erect a pier and breakwater to provide a harbor on Lake Winnebago.

It passed and sent to the senate the bill of Assemblyman Leo T. Niemuth (R), Oshkosh, which transfers title to the shore property involved from the state to the city.

The harbor will be erected in Miller's bay, around the point known as Horseshoe island.

Two Rivers at Kimberly Under Lights Tomorrow

Urby Wildenberg To Patrol Right For Papermakers

Al LaDuke Slated for Mound Duty; Invaders Have Strong Club

KIMBERLY—Kimberly Papermakers will open the night baseball season here at 8:15 Wednesday evening when they play the Two Rivers Icebergs in a postponed game. Last Sunday evening the Kimberly team made its first start under lights at Kaukauna and although they outthrew the Electric City team, lost the decision.

Manager Whitey Behrendt of the Papermakers has nominated Al LaDuke for mound duty and expects that his "fireball" will go swishing up to the plate so fast the invaders will think it is a comet breezing through the heavens. "Sonny" Wildenberg will handle the big miter.

The Papermakers also will show Urby Wildenberg on the home lot for the first time this season. He rejoined the team last Sunday at Kaukauna and patrolled the right garden and smacked a home run and a single. Urby recently was with Terre Haute after spring training down south.

Two Rivers walloped Oshkosh last Sunday by a 15 to 1 count mauling two Oshkosh hurlers for 13 hits.

The club has a couple tough pitchers in Lefty Fortin, who has been hurling for "yars and yars," and Harlan Bohne, a youthful sensation. Among others on the team are Eddie Raab, second baseman, who used to play for Green Bay and old Mike Muldowney, who cavorted in the garden for the Bays. At first the team has S. Smogoleski and in left his brother Chet. Both were with the Brewers this spring.

Kobals Whitewash Pruetz Team, 7-0

Bobbie Diener Tosses for Winners and Allows Only 3 Hits

Kobal Tavern softball team of the American City league Sunday took on the Pruetz Taverns, composed of some of the best talent in town, and administered a 7 to 0 licking in a contest that saw fists fly a couple times. It started out as a grudge battle but with the Kobals winning handily and Diener allowing no runs, the Pruetz team quieted down.

Bobbie Diener hurled for the Kobals and allowed only three hits, fanned four and walked none. Ole Lorenz tossed for the Pruetz team and gave up five hits, fanned five and walked eight.

Kobal's counted three runs in the third inning on two hits and two walks. In the fourth frame two more runs were added to the total and in the seventh another two runs were counted when "Shorty" Steger walloped a homer with a mate on base.

Braddock Again Takes Things Easy

Title Holder Spends Day Playing Golf With Manager, Ross

Grand Beach, Mich.—(U)—Heavyweight champion Jim Braddock took it comparatively easy today, satisfied that he is well ahead of his schedule of training for his bout June 22 with Joe Louis in Chicago. The titleholder, who visited Washington park race track in Chicago yesterday to celebrate his 31st birthday, played a round of golf with Manager Joe Gould and Dr. Ross, the welterweight titleholder who also is training here. Braddock will box again tomorrow.

Kenosha.—(U)—Another six-round workout with sparmates was on Joe Louis' program today as the Brown Bomber held rigidly to his program of training for a world title bout June 22 at Chicago with Heavyweight Champion Jim Braddock. Louis did not work out yesterday. He took a rest as a reward for his good showing Sunday against three hired helpers. The bomber showed increased speed and an improvement in his timing.

Pressnell Hit Hard but Brews Down Columbus

Score Is 9 to 2; Colonels Get Even With Minneapolis

CHICAGO.—(U)—All is not well with the St. Paul Saints in American association affairs this season and Lou Fette, now of the Boston Bees, apparently is one of the big reasons.

The 30-year-old Fette is a "rookie" with the Bees, and currently the National league pitching sensation with six victories and only one defeat to his credit. But things aren't going nearly that well for the team he left behind, for Gabby Street's charges are in the association cellar, and showing few signs, at the moment, of being able to climb out.

Fette won 25 games and lost but eight for St. Paul last season, his record getting him a long-sought chance in the big time and being largely responsible for the Saints taking second place behind Milwaukee.

Two additional reasons for the Saints' low position, apparently, were the loss of other hurlers, John Rigney, now with Chicago, and Ira Hutchinson, with the Bees.

The Saints dropped another game yesterday, bowing to Indianapolis 5 to 4.

Some equally steady hurling by Dick Bess of Louisville gave the Colonels a 7 to 2 win over the hard-hitting Minneapolis Millers.

Milwaukee defeated Columbus 9 to 2 in one of two night games played, the Brewers winning behind the pitching of Forrest Pressnell, who allowed 12 hits but held the Birds scoreless until the eighth.

Milwaukee made an equal number of hits off Max Macon, Lanier and Crouch of Columbus.

Toledo defeated Kansas City 5 to 4 as Dizzy Trout hurled eight-hit ball.

In other last round games St. John, Menasha defeated St. Theresa of Appleton 4 to 3. St. Mary's of Kaukauna topped St. Mary's of Appleton 7 to 5 and St. Joseph turned back the Appleton St. Mary club 18 to 9.

'Tis a Pleasure to Talk To a Guy Like Charley Root

BY PAUL MICKELSON

NEW YORK.—(U)—After losing sleep and eating cold dinners while reporting the antics of Dizzy Dean, it's a great pleasure to talk to a tried and true ball player like Charles Henry Root, grandpappy of the Chicago Cubs pitching staff.

Root 1 o o k twice as hard boiled as Dizzy but is as opposite as the rock bound coast from the sun-kissed shores.

He's the kind of a man who's safe to admire, a baseball hero of the first degree who believes in law and order.

Probably no man in baseball today has taken punishment like Root without a grumble. In 1927, the Cubs jeopardized his pitching arm by working him almost daily as they feverishly and unsuccessfully sought the National league pennant. In '34 and '36, they shoed him into the bull pen day after day and he didn't grumble. After the '34 season, Root, who once received top money of $22,500, was given a provisional contract. Instead of roaring, Charlie pitched the Cubs right into the pennant with 15 victories.

Root, now 38 and in his thirteenth season with the Cubs, has been the team's life-saver this year, too. Despite a deep cut in salary, he came up with some of his best pitching while the Cub mound staff lay crippled, winning four of his first five games. The secret of his new found success is a knuckle ball and a diet that reduced his weight from 190 to 180 pounds.

Root is a typical American husband and father, a 100 per cent good citizen. He plays the piano, goes to father and sons banquets, flower shows and is a handy man around the house. He has a 2,300 acre ranch 120 miles south of San Francisco stocked with pure bred cattle.

When traveling with the ball club, Charlie's the first man up in the morning. As a pitcher, he's unquestionably the fastest worker in baseball with a side arm motion that makes him tough on right handed hitters but a cinch for southpaw batters.

His fastest job was beating Boston in an hour and 12 minutes. He's pitched more than a score of games that required only 11 hours or less.

Root names Bill Terry, Paul Waner and Chuck Klein as his greatest hoochiees, the hardest men he ever faced as a pitcher. Babe Ruth gave him his saddest moment when the Babe called his shot and knocked a homer in the crucial 1932 world series game.

Altman was knocked out on an attempted steal home but finished the game. Art Schroeder slapped two hits in four trips and four other Hilbert batters got two hits in five attempts.

Nelson and Ulness formed the Valdres battery. Nelson striking out seven men, walking two and allowed eleven hits. Anhalt led at the bat for Valdres, getting two hits in four times up. Valdres batters clouted five doubles.

Next Sunday's games show Valdres at Stockbridge, Chilton at Cleveland, Marytown at Hilbert, Mount Calvary at New Holstein and Kiel, Idla.

State, Valley Champions Will Get Gold Shoes

Committee Named to Arrange for Presentation Program

OUTSTANDING members of Appleton High school's track and field team, which this year emblazoned the school's name all over state sport pages with a victory in Class A competition at Madison and with victories in the Fox River Valley conference track and field meet and in the relay carnival, are going to receive public recognition for their work from Appleton Lions club.

At their noon luncheon meeting yesterday noon at the Conway hotel, the Lions adopted a resolution appropriating funds to buy a certain number of the tracksters gold track shoes for their work in the state and Valley conference meets.

A committee of F. N. Belanger, A. E. Detmer and E. C. Moore, was named to arrange for the presentation which will take place at a noon luncheon of the club in a few weeks.

The awards are expected to go to boys who won points in the Valley conference meet at Green Bay last Friday when the Terrors won their second consecutive conference championship. The team was led by the same boys who scored in the state championship march at Madison on May 29.

Appleton's victory in Class A competition at Madison was the first for the school in state meet history and was only the second time a Valley conference school has ever won over the strong Milwaukee and down state schools.

Recently Coach Joseph Shields of the Terrors received a letter from Carl Beecher, city clerk, on behalf of the common council, commending the squad on its accomplishments.

New York Yanks Find Western Foes are Tough

American League Champs Feel Horace Greeley's Remark Was Bad

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

I T may have been good advice when Horace Greeley first uttered the crack, but the world champion Yankees are beginning to lose faith in this "go west" business.

The first time they deserted the Bronx for Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis, they compiled the indifferent record of four victories and five defeats. Now, going into Chicago to meet the amazing White Sox, their report card shows only two triumphs in six starts since they opened the tour in Cleveland a week ago.

Until yesterday, when the Tigers gave them a 4-3 trimming, their own misguided actions had been responsible for much of their woes. But yesterday they had no such excuse—just too much good pitching by southpaw Jake Wade, who let them down with four hits and struck out nine, and two much hitting by the Detroiters, who landed on Lefty Gomez for eight hits, including Hank Greenberg's game-winning homer.

Manager Joe McCarthy hardly can look forward to the White Sox series with enthusiasm for the Sox are riding the crest of a nine-game winning streak, best to date in the majors, that has tied them for second place with Cleveland in the won-and-lost column and put them five points behind in the percentages. Both are within a game of the Yanks.

Maybe It's Cigars
Possibly it's the big black cigars favored by Manager Jimmy Dykes that hold the secret of Sox success. The team has the 1936 American league batting champion in Luke Appling, a slugging first baseman in Zeke Bonura, and a shrewd catcher in 36-year-old Luke Sewell, but beyond that little of any note.

Three of the Sox pitchers have accounted for 14 of the 24 victories—Monty Stratton, with six; Vernon Kennedy, only 20-game winner last year, with five, and Bill Dietrich, who last week pitched a no-hit, no-run game and yesterday chalked up his third win as the Sox belted four Athletics' tossers for 16 hits and a 12-6 triumph.

Nor could it have pleased McCarthy to hear that Bob Feller should be back with the Indians in another week. The Indians have been doing well enough without their schoolboy wonder, as witness the 17-5 shellacking of the Senators yesterday that marked Earl Whitehill's 200th major league victory. The 37-year-old southpaw, dean of the Cleveland staff, allowed only one hit for four innings, then eased up after his mates gave him eight runs in the third.

In the other American league game Oral Hildebrand's six-hit effort turned back the Red Sox, 9-6, as Wes Ferrell lost his sixth.

Meanwhile the Giants widened their National league lead to a game and a half over the idle Cubs with a 5-2 defeat of the Pirates. The Bucs have lost five straight and have dropped their last six battles with the Terrymen. The Dodgers gave Roy Henshaw, who won his first game last Saturday, his second triumph in three days by edging out the Reds, 5-4, in ten innings.

Blowoff

DIZZY DEAN doesn't need instruments when it comes to popping off, but he was willing to pose with the bass horn if they'd let him tool it.

A BALK started this popping off when Diz pitched against and lost to Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants on May 19. Then he "dusted 'em off."

A FEW DAYS later Diz took no chances of having a balk called on him with overtime pauses on the mound—and he struck a 1-man sit-down strike while umpires and Cardinals wrangled over his slow delivery.

THEN DEAN made unkind remarks about Umpire George Barr and National League President Ford Frick, providing a buildup for Diz's second holdout of 1937.

PRESIDENT FRICK, a former Hoosier schoolmaster, couldn't make Diz stay after school and write on his blackboard, "I'll be a good boy" a thousand times, so Jerome Her- man's time became his own—with-out pay.

"The eyes!" she cried wildly. "The eyes! Get them, I'm telling you! Get them before they get you!" Higgins tried to calm her. "Be quiet a little," he said, rather ineffectually. Michael finally asked her what happened. That provoked the explosion. "Happened?" Mother of God! I should have known better than to stay in this God-forsaken place! I sent that good-for-nothing Annie out here for my glasses, and when she didn't come back, thinks I'll get teach that young fool a lesson! I had a rood notion she's sneaked off upstairs. "Ret, is it, you think? And I suppose it's not live on my head?" Strangely enough, no one laughed. Cook was gathering momentum. "I felt them, I'm tellin' you! Cold, they was! I turned quick to scare them off and--there they--was! Her freckled hand was pointing to the outer door. "Like pieces of fire. Before I'd had time to so much as give a decent yell, they stabbed me!" Her voice rose higher and higher and ended in a blood-curdling whoop. "Where is Annie?" I seized a ragged bit of pottery from the table. "Cook," I said sternly, "be quiet! Someone came in that door. You saw the reflection of the light in his eyes. You weren't station All over the floor and even on the

USES CAR AXLE TO BUILD WINDMILL
Building windmills has been a hobby of Jacob Luedtke, 417 Fifth street, Neenah, for many years and he is shown standing in front of one of his largest and most unusual products. The rear axle of a $3 motor car is concealed in the structure and makes it possible for the upper part to revolve as the wind turns the 6-foot blades. Various figures, cut out and painted by Mr. Luedtke, are located in the "whirligig" and it is topped off with a group of smaller windmills. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Builds Unusual Windmill From Axle of $3 Motor Car

Neenah — An axle from a $3 car made possible the construction of a singular windmill by Jacob Luedtke, 417 Fifth street, Neenah. Mr. Luedtke had visioned a windmill with a large "whirligig" revolving horizontally but it was not until he acquired a discarded car axle from an auto of ancient vintage that he was able to carry out his plan.

Towering in his backyard is a 13-foot windmill comparable to nothing else in the state and representing every minute of the craftsman's spare time for a period of about nine months. Wind turns the 6-foot blades, which are fastened on the drive shaft and the barrel holding the "whirligig" is turned correspondingly. A huge fin in the rear heads the windmill into the wind and smaller windmills are situated on the top.

On a windy day, Mr. Luedtke, an employee of the Bergstrom Paper Co., while his time watching the wood people and horses whirl about in an endless fashion. The caricatures, placed in merry-go-round fashion, have special significance to their creator. The barrel is bolted to spokes of the wheel and the novel structure is brightly painted in patriotic colors.

2 Committees From Council Refuse to Act

Refusal Is Outgrowth of Argument Over City Business

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau)
Oshkosh — Ugly words were bandied about and charges that a board of public works member had "invaded an alderman's home like a hungry wolf" were aired at the common council meeting here Monday night, as an investigating committee refused to investigate and an auditing committee refused to audit.

The argument follows a recent opinion by City Attorney Harry E. Meyer that the city could not do business with the Badger Concrete Co. so long as Edward C. Duwe, a company executive, was a member of the board of public works.

A resolution was brought in last previous council meeting by Alderman Veranus Nevins, asking that all boards and aldermen and 'city officers' be investigated. At the Monday night meeting, Alderman Charles Bolter, chairman, refused to make a report.

Following his refusal, two members of the auditing committee stated they had refused to sign any city bills with the exception of the payrolls, claiming they were uncertain, in view of the city attorney's opinion, whether they were sanctioning illegal disbursements.

Alderman Leo Lang and Paul Sitter were the auditing 'sit-down' strikers.

A note to the council from R. F. Kriz, city comptroller, calling attention to a $3,500 "gift" by the city of Oshkosh to outside villages in the form of fire protection, brought a reply from Mayor Wiechering that arrangements are being completed to cover this.

He stated that following a fire at the County Home, several months ago, when Oshkosh fire apparatus were sent to the scene, a check was received for $100. He reported that a fire alarm system had been installed at Sunnyview Sanatorium and the city of Oshkosh would answer fire calls at $300 per call. This service will be extended to other county buildings at similar charges, he said.

"Outside of the money, it is the only humane thing to do," Mayor Wiechering said. Alderman Leo T. Niemuth pointed out that as the city of Oshkosh pays 47 per cent of the county taxes, a fire loss to county buildings would be a loss to Oshkosh.

No service will be given to farm homes on fire in the future, it was decided, as no provisions can be assured for water connections, Mayor Wiechering reported.

Andrews declined to discuss the situation, other than to say that increasing interest in his proposal had been evidenced. Under it, the supreme court eventually would be constituted of a chief justice appointed from the country at large and ten associated justices, one appointed from each of the circuit court districts.

Provision might be made, it was said, to qualify Andrews' scheme by allowing appointment of only one additional justice in a year. Andrews also has proposed a constitutional amendment to force retirement of justices at 75. This would stipulate that the associate justices represent the circuit court districts.

Senator Burke (D-Ne.) reiterated that any enlargement would be resisted in months of debate, if necessary. Indications were that the judiciary committee report opposing the Roosevelt bill would be submitted to the senate in a day or so, unless major revisions were made.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD BLAKESLEE
Rochester, Minn.—(AP)—A new treatment for gout is under experiment at the Mayo Clinic here and is reported in its proceedings.

What causes gout is still unknown.

There has been only one major new treatment since the 19th century, says this publication. The 16th century treatment was colchicine—but how this drug affords relief has never been learned. It is still prescribed as a rule at the very first attack.

Even the belief that diet can bring relief is beginning to be doubted. The Mayos are now experimenting on two drugs combined, salicylates and glycerine.

number of militiamen, including "Albert Durant, commander of the Second International brigade."

Authorities at Perpignan announced the arrest of an Italian, one of a group suspected of trying to bomb strategic government-held points.

Sixty or more separate buildings in widely-scattered sections of Madrid were hit at least once, many more often. One shell burst in the Cuban consulate. The office of the United Press, United States news agency, was struck three times and that of Havas, French news agency, once. The Bank of Spain also was hit.

Explosives burst in a wide range over the city. The much-shelled workers' residential neighborhood, Cuatro Caminos, suffered most of the destruction. Fully 300 shells fell there.

Madridites with their customary stoicism, swarmed back into the streets later. Knots of pedestrians gathered to see the scenes of the worst desolation. Cleanup squads shoveled heaps of splintered glass and debris from the streets. Repair crews hastily filled in gaping holes in the streets so that traffic could flow safely again.

Simple Services Being Arranged For Jean Harlow

Mother Hopes to Avoid Demonstrations by Crowds of Curious

Los Angeles—(AP)—Jean Harlow, author of the platinum blonde vogue and central figure of marital tragedy, will be buried with simplicity contrasting sharply with one of Hollywood's most spectacular careers.

The 26-year-old movie star died unexpectedly yesterday of uremic poisoning.

Her death, at the height of her success, was reminiscent of that of Barbara LaMar, Wallace Reid, and Rudolph Valentino.

But her mother, Mrs. Jean Bello, and her stepfather, Marino Bello, sought to forestall demonstrations by great throngs of curious persons like those which saw Valentino as he lay in state and which greeted the train that bore his body across the continent.

Miss Harlow will not lie in state. The coffin will be closed when private funeral services are held at 11 a. m. tomorrow at the Wee Kerk of the Heather in Glendale. Arrangements for interment are yet to be made.

Death Unexpected

"Jean's mother wishes it so," said Bello, divorced from Mrs. Bello two years but united with her in common grief. "She wants Jean to remain in the memory of her fans as she was in life, so the body will not lie in state."

Little warning had been given that the end was near for the girl who did her first screen work in 1928 and shortly was rocketed to vogue stardom as the platinum blonde in "Hell's Angels." She left the set of "Saragosa," in which she was being starred with Clark Gable, last May 29, feeling ill.

She asked then for William Powell, who had been her closest friend for two years. Her illness was first reported as fall bladder trouble, then as a cold. She was removed to a hospital Sunday, without the fact becoming generally known, and died there yesterday just before noon.

Married Three Times

"Why did this have to be?" cried Powell, who was with her at death. "I loved her. I loved her."

Miss Harlow had been married three times—to Charles McGraw, wealthy sportsman, in 1927; Paul Bern, film producer, in 1932, and Harold Rosson, ace film cameraman in 1933. Bern took his own life and the other marriages ended in divorce.

Whatever unhappiness may have attended her private life, Miss Harlow preferred comedy dramas to all other types of film stories, as witness "Blonde Bombshell" and "Li-leled Lady." Even after her first picture success, she believed she was "the worst actress to enter films."

She changed the color of her hair first to platinum blonde, then red, then brownette, partly to meet film demands.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

bed by anything. You were hit with a flower pot. Look here."

But Cook was too far gone for flower pots. "It's the devil, I'm telling you," she shrieked. "And that Annie!"

"Great Scott!" cried Michael. "Where is Annie? She couldn't help hearing this!"

William's face was white. "She ain't upstairs, sir. I just went in her room after the bandages."

"Perhaps," Gay was talking to convince herself, "perhaps she's cleaning or something upstairs."

Higgins frowned. "I doubt it, Miss. When Mr. James told me, I left explicit orders that they wasn't to go no place outside of the quarters. Annie's a good girl. She does as she's told."

That was too much for Cook. She struggled to her feet.

"Good?" she shrieked. "Good? Why, that dirty little—"

"That will do, Cook." The Skipper stood grim and determined behind us. "We've had enough of this nonsense. Michael, go stay with your aunt. Don't stand there gaping."

Michael went, the Skipper shutting the door deliberately on his back.

"Jim, that girl is in this house—be quiet, Cook—and we're going to find her, if we have to tear the rotten place apart! Is that door locked?"

She referred to the back door. I stepped to it eagerly, but it was locked and the key was on the inside.

"Higgins and I will take the lower floor. You and William take the upper one. Hurry!"

There was a bread-knife in the midst of the mess on the table. I picked it up and started for the stairs with William at my heels. But we didn't get very far. For distinctly through the silence came a sound—a vague, shuffling noise, indescribable and rather horrible.

Screams and hysteria.

For a split second we stood listening, spellbound. Then the Skipper moved. She sprang to the back door, turned the key, and threw the door open. On the floor at her feet lay Annie, bound hand and foot with a piece of clothesline and gagged with a white handkerchief.

A harsh, inarticulate roar boiled from William's lips. Roughly he brushed past the Skipper and knelt beside the girl. His large, capable fingers had the handkerchief off in a moment and were at the knots in the rope before Annie's preliminary screams split the silence and stirred us to life.

The girl was hysterical and in no half-hearted fashion. There was no pleading together any jerky words. Removed to the sofa in the dining room and treated with cold water, smelling salts and aromatics, she continued to send scream after scream echoing through the house.

The Skipper shook and even slapped her. Cook, a terrifying spectacle in her bandages, added to the general uproar by favoring us with a vigorous description of her feelings toward Annie.

"Beg pardon, sir," said William in my ear. "I think if you was all to leave her to me for a minute, I could quiet her."

We filed into the kitchen thankfully. In the same room with the girl the racket was unthinkable, but from behind closed doors it was still bad.

"Your party, Jim," said the Skipper.

I said "Thanks," bitterly. They were all looking at me—waiting. I stared desperately back, and my eye fell first of all on Cook.

"Did you hear anything at all in here after Annie left you?" I demanded. "I did not!" her retort was spirited. "You won't be hearing the Old Nick, He's—"

"Just answer my questions, please. How long had Annie been gone before you went after her?"

"How would I know? I didn't time her. A couple of minutes, maybe. She's that lazy, I never thought—"

"What did you do while you waited for her?"

Cook looked uneasy. "Well, now, I was lyin' there on the sofa and I maybe took a couple of winks. I wouldn't know for sure."

And that was that. For all the value of her evidence she might just as well have been at the South Pole.

I find a disturbing clue to Annie's assailant, tomorrow.

How Appleton Grew Under Its 30 Mayors Since 1857

(This is the seventeenth of a series of articles discussing Appleton's mayors and the important matters occurring during their administrations. These articles will appear once a week in the Post-Crescent.)

BY LLOYD J. DERUS

Dr. Rush Winslow, above, served as Appleton's mayor for three terms in 1877, 1888, and 1892. He also served as the important matters occurring during their administrations. These articles will appear once a week in the Post-Crescent.)

Plans were underway for building a water reservoir with a capacity of one to two million gallons when the council was disatisfied with the supply provided by the artesian wells. Grabow and Schnetzler parks were opened, and park commissioners were named for the first time.

In order to secure the free delivery postal system, the council planned to number streets and lay out a new street. The street railway track was laid out for extension to Menasha. The Edison company at this time had two electric circuits in the city, one for the mill district and the other for the uptown and residential district.

A contract for building a $20,000 bridge over the Fox river at Lake Winslow was let during Mayor Winslow's second term. The city planned installation of 200 street gas lamps and 100 electric lamps.

It was proposed to extend the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad from Madison to Florence with its route going through Appleton and several other Fox river valley cities.

Take First Steps Toward Securing City Swim Pool

Kaukauna—Members of the board of public works and Frank Charlesworth, city engineer, yesterday inspected public swimming pools at Kimberly and New London as the first step in the investigation of the possibilities for one in this city.

The board was authorized by the council last week to study building costs and sites and report at the next meeting. This action was taken after it was disclosed at the council session that two of the most popular swimming places in the city, the Kaukauna quarry and Reichel's ice pond, would be closed to swimmers this summer.

It was suggested to make this a WPA project and the property behind the municipal building was mentioned as a likely site.

The board also inspected the Black plat at the end of Wisconsin avenue yesterday. Acceptance of this property, containing 35 lots, as a regular city addition will be asked at the next council meeting.

Residents are anxious that city street improvements be made and sewer and water installed.
